Farms assured of enough fuel to take care of crops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Simon, the nation's energy chief, reassured farmers today they need have no worry that they will get all the gasoline, propane and fuel oil they need to harvest or process their crops.

"If the farmers, dairymen, livestock raisers and comercial fishermen are going to provide the increased production they have been asked to produce next year, they must get the fuel they need to do the job," Simon said.

While fuel allocations already announced contain provisions that agriculture would get priority treatment, Simon issued the new assurance in a prepared speech to an agricultural outlook conference sponsored by the Agriculture Department.

On another subject, Simon said it would be "pure speculation" to predict how high the cost of gasoline will go in this country. There have been some forecasts that it will reach $1 or more a gallon in a few months.

Simon said in an interview this morning on the NBC-TV Today Show that it was impossible at this time to make a forecast with any degree of accuracy because of such variables as crude oil prices and consumer demand.

"To speculate, and it would be pure speculation, on where the market price is going to be for gasoline next year is difficult because there are just too many things that could happen between now and then," Simon said.

On farm needs, Simon said: "There is no question that farmers will have to contribute to energy conservation, just like other sectors of the economy. However, I believe that 'farm needs' are really national needs."

Simon said he would decide this week whether to recommend to President Nixon that gasoline rationing be instituted.

Other world-wide energy developments:

—The British Cabinet today approved special emergency budget measures aimed at combatting serious energy and labor problems. Government sources said the additional belt-tightening moves would mean higher taxes, pay cuts, part time working and mounting unemployment.

—Japan, also suffering economic pains due to the oil shortage, pondered whether to buy oil from Libya at the risk of offending Washington and large international oil companies. Yasuhiro Nakasone, minister of International Trade and Industry, told the Japanese parliament, the Diet, "I want every drop of oil our country can get."

—Simon said pharmaceutical houses would get adequate fuel to continue production of essential drugs and to carry out priority research. The statement was issued this morning just before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Health subcommittee opened hearings on effects of the energy crisis on the drug industry.

—The National Safety Council said that because of gasoline conservation measures and lowered speed limits, its original estimate of the number of persons who will die from traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday period had been lowered by 50 to an estimate of 550 to 650 persons.

—In Philadelphia, consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the energy crisis was "the most phony crisis ever inflicted upon a modern society," while Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, who told a group of plastic processors in Cambridge, Ohio that the energy crunch "is a lot of baloney contrived to drive up prices."

HIJACKERS BOMB JET, KILL 21

Till emptied after clerk pistol-whipped

POMONA — A liquor store clerk was cracked over the head by one of two robbers Saturday night after being forced to kneel at gunpoint and an hour later police booked a suspect in the holdup.

The victim, Michael R. Dannan, 27, Covina, was treated for a head injury at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He later was released.

Dannan was working in the Cask and Keg Liquors at 2385 N. Garey Ave. when the holdup men entered about 8:45 p.m. One drew a pistol from his waistband and ordered Dannan to kneel. Afer taking cash from the register one robber slugged Dannan from behind, apparently with a .38-caliber revolver. Dannan fell to the floor and lay there until the men fled.

The victim's father, who owns the liquor store, was working in the rear of the building while the robbery was going on, but didn't know about it until it was over.

The gunman was described as a Negro in his late teens, about 5 feet 8 weighing 160 pounds. He wore a blue knit cap, black jacket and was described as thin. The second man was of similar description and wore dark clothing.

Police later arrested Anthony Lamar Yarbrough, 20, 228 Roberts St. They said he matched the description of one robber and was in a car similar to one they used.

RUNWAY AGONY

Ignoring a passenger bleeding from a terrorist's bullet on the runway, two Arab guerrillas march a Lufthansa pilot, pistol at his head, to the cockpit of an escape plane. Arabs shot another passenger to death, and blew up a partially-filled Pan Am jet in Rome airport attack today.

Flames, gunfire claim victims in Rome battle

ROME (UPI) — In one of their bloodiest attacks, Arab guerrillas shot up a departure lounge at Leonardo da Vinci airport today, bombed a Pan American jet, burning to death many of its passengers, then hijacked a West German jetliner to Athens.

Pan American World Airways said at least 21 persons were killed in the attack and a shootout at Leonardo da Vinci International airport. Most of the victims burned to death in the grenade assault that destroyed the Pan Am 707 jetliner.

One of the dead was an unidentified American who got caught in a crossfire during a shootout on the runway, airport officials said.

Pan Am officials said 57 passengers and nine crew members were aboard the plane at the time of the attack and "a lot" of those on board were Americans. The officials said four Moroccan ministers of state were also aboard the plane at the time of the attack. Their fate was not certain.

Coming almost on the eve of new Geneva talks for peace between the Arabs and Israelis in the Middle East, the attack was one of the worst since Arab guerrilla action began. Twenty-six persons were killed in the assault on Lod airport in Tel Aviv on May 30, 1972, and 17 persons killed in the Sept. 5, 1972 attack on the Israeli quarters in Olympic village in Munich.

The hijacked twin-engine Lufthansa Boeing 737 landed at Athens international airport at 5:05 p.m. (10:05 a.m. EST) and parked about three-quarters of a mile from the terminal.

The Arabs demanded the Greek government free two guerrillas jailed for an attack on Athens airport last August, airport sources said. Control tower officials said the guerrillas also asked for ambulances to remove wounded from the plane.

Police armed with submachine guns surrounded the airport. West German Ambassador Dirk Onken met with Greek security officers in the terminal.

Control tower sources said the guerrillas gave the Greek government 90 minutes deadline to turn over the prisoners, arrested for a pistol and hand grenade attack Aug. 5 which killed four persons.

The government said it needed two hours to discuss the demands. The guerrillas said a hostage would be shot to death and thrown out of the aircraft, if the demand was not met.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the flight did not originate in New York as scheduled but rather in Rome. Because bad weather delayed the departure of flight 110 from New York to Rome, the airline designated another flight 110— the one leaving Rome for Beirut and Tehran.

The original flight number 110 arrived in Rome from New York as the other plane was blown up. It landed at Rome's Ciampino Airport.

A Lufthansa spokesman said there were no passengers aboard the hijacked plane. The hostages included the plane crew and several airport employes.

The sequence that led to the hijacking began when security guards caught several Arabs trying to take guns concealed in their luggage aboard a departiing plane.

The Arabs began shooting wildly inside the departure lounge and grabbed several hostages. Airport officials said at least six of the hostages were members of the public security force at the airport.

One of the dead was shot in the back as he was walking down the stairs from the Lufthansa plane which the guerrillas comandeered, airport officials said.

One wounded passenger lay in his own blood only a few feet away.

Israel okays parley

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today Israel has agreed to attend the opening of the Middle East peace conference in Geneva and that the first stage of the talks will deal with the disengagement of forces on the Suez front.

"There is full agreement about the procedures of the opening of the conference," Kissinger told newsmen at Lod International Airport after 10 hours of talks with the Israeli leaders over the past day and a half.

Smouldering trash blamed

Fire rips La Madeleine restaurant

CHINO — A fire, apparently starting in a trash can, charred and gutted the main bar in the La Madeleine French Cuisine Restaurant at 5275 D St. Sunday morning.

Firemen said a Chino police unit in the area of the French restaurant across from the central fire station reported that smoke was pouring out from under the rear door of the main bar about 3:24 a.m. When firemen arrived a minute later the main bar was totally engulfed in flames.

Four Chino Fire Department engine companies and one Montclair Fire Department company had the blaze under control within 20 minutes. Inside the main bar, dozens of upholstered chairs, tables, carpeting, liquor bottles, and glasses lay charred and cracked from the intense heat and flames. Firemen were able to contain the blaze before it spread to the large banquet room, kitchen and dining areas of the restaurant.

Fire inspectors were at the scene this morning waiting to make a more thorough investigation of the blaze and attempt to determine the amount of loss. Firemen said they believe that a smouldering cigarette dumped with other trash inside a trash can was placed underneath the bar about 2 a.m. The trash smouldered for about an hour, finally starting the blaze.

The main bar was destroyed and smoke damage was reported throughout the building. Firemen said outside of some smoke damage the kitchen was not touched by the fire. The structure of the building was damaged only slightly, firemen said.

Fire officials estimated that less than 200 gallons of water were used to stop the fire. Thirteen firemen were called to the scene.

San Bernardino County vote Tuesday

By PAUL HILL
P-B staff Writer

One thing each of the four candidates in Tuesday's 20th Senate District special election agree on is that the heavier the voting the better his own chance of success.

For the two Democratic candidates in the contest, such theorizing may be all too painfully true. Traditionally, voting is light in special elections, and of those who cast ballots Republicans usually do so in greater numbers.

Predictions by the San Bernardino County registrar of voters office are for a 40 per cent turnout of the eligible voters in the district, but some observers see this as an overly optimistic figure. Other forecasts range from 25 per cent to 35 per cent, and are more in line with original predictions at the time Gov. Ronald Reagan called for the special election over five weeks ago to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of William E. Coombs.

Coombs resigned to take a post with the Treasury Department, a move most observers. It was generally well-known that Coombs, for various reasons, wanted to give up his place in the state legislature.

Seeking to take his place are two Democrats — County Supervisor Ruben Ayala of Chino and Rialto City Councilman Ralph Carter — and two Republicans — Assemblyman Jerry Lewis (73rd District) and Big Bear businessman Robert J. Allenthorp.

Should any one of the candidates fail to get more than 50 per cent of the total vote, a Jan. 15 runoff will be held between the top vote-getters of each party.

A GOP victory would again even up things in the Senate, 20 Republicans and 20 Democrats. However, should either Ayala or Carter win, Democrats would have control of both houses in the Legislature.

Lewis and Ayala are generally looked upon as the leading contenders, but it is no small consolation to Ayala and his supporters that Carter could which did not come as a surprise to hurt his chances much more than Allenthorp could Lewis'.

The GOP is firmly behind Lewis, while Democrats as a whole have not lined up behind one candidate. An example is the County Democratic Central Committee's refusal to endorse either Ayala or Carter, preferring to remain neutral as in the case of primary elections.

Ayala has received individual endorsements from a number of the state's leading Democrats (among them Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr. and U.S. Sen. John Tunney), but the endorsements are the extent of their support, Ayala says. Like Carter, Ayala says his campaign contributions have principally came from small individual donations from "the people."

Lewis' campaign chest is well-stocked, totaling more than $60,000. He says more than 1,500 individuals have contributed to his campaign.

Integrity has been the main issue in the candidates' campaigns, which is perhaps not hard to understand in this year of the Watergate scandals.

The 20th Senate District is made up of all of San Bernardino County with the exception of the Redlands, Yucaipa and Loma Linda areas. In terms of voter registration, Democrats have an edge (55 per cent) but that can be misleading. Coombs is a Republican, and he represented the area the past seven years.

Somewhat ironic is the fact that the eventual winner will represent the entire district for only a year. He will face re-election next year in a newly reapportioned district (the 32nd), which will consist of the western half of the county and the city of Pomona in Los Angeles County.

The registrar of voters office is basing its 40 per cent prediction on the "higher than normal" return of absentee ballots. A spokesman said the "biggest majority" of the 1,800 absentee ballots sent out had been returned by last Friday.

Snow and sleet cripple sections of East Coast

By United Press International

Snow, sleet and freezing rain hit the East Coast from Virginia to Maine today, dumping a near-paralyzing half foot of snow on Washington, D.C. and making conditions so slippery in New York City the opening of the New York and American Stock Exchanges was delayed.

More winter was on the way.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect from the lower Great Lakes to the central Appalachians and east to the Atlantic seaboard. Up to 20 inches of snow was forecast for the Pocono Mountains of eastern Pennsylvania.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported from New England as far south as northern Georgia. A belt of freezing rain and sleet 150 miles wide iced roads and contributed to a series of storm-connected traffic deaths.

At least four were dead, two in Virginia and one each in Rhode Island and Massachusetts in motor accidents.

In the nation's capital, six inches of snow closed all schools, stopped flights at National Airport and allowed government workers an extra two hours to get to work.

"We're kind of excited," a Washington highway spokesman said. "This is the first time in four years we've had snowplows out."

Police from New Hampshire to New York and south to Virginia reported large numbers of "fender bender" accidents.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain blitzed the New York metropolitan area. New York City was forced to cancel for a second time a plan to transform Fifth Avenue into a pedestrian mall, and the city's Sunday half-fare mass transit plan got off to a slow start as subfreezing temperatures scared off subway and bus riders from an inexpensive ride.

Fair weather prevailed from the western Great Lakes to Texas and through the southcentral Rockies.

Maryland woman swamped with letters backing Nixon

OLNEY, Md. (UPI) — Anyone wishing to express support for President Nixon may eat fried chicken or a pancake supper, march with placards or sign petitions. Now there's a new alternative.

She is Mrs. Dolores Smith Olney, and for the past three months her work of dedication has been to "stack and stack" pro-Nixon letters she gets as testimony for the news media and other nations that the United States backs its chief executive.

So far, she said she has "stacked" over 200 such letters, most of them from retired or military people.

The 40-year-old Maryland housewife conducts her campaign from a card table in her living room, sometimes working into early morning.

"In this time of crisis, our President, the man we elected, needs our full support to carry out the urgent tasks before him...I firmly believe this," she said.

She has followed the Senate Watergate hearings, kept track of opinion polls, read the Constitution in full for the first time, written and phoned congressmen and made several frustrating attempts to interest Washington newspapers, radio and television stations.

Reading about the outpouring of telegrams that followed the dismissal of special prosecutor Archibald Cox, she did some figuring.

"Even if every one of the 56,000 messages were critical, my almanac says 45 million voted for him in 1972," she said. "There really is a silent majority out there ..."

Not long ago Mrs. Smith was a silent American herself and she doesn't find easy to explain the transformation.

One element, she said, was open-heart surgery this past year on one of her four-year old twin daughters, Stacy, which she described as a maturing period.

She has drafted an information which says "the office of the President is regarded with great respect by countries around the world" and requests that "each concerned citizen write a letter to the President pledging him the support he needs to build a better America."

"I merely want to provide the silent majority out there with an opinion poll of its own...I want all Americans to evaluate the issue fairly," Mrs. Smith said.

She finances her campaign from household funds. "The last thing I want, with all that's going on now, is financial contributions," she said, waving a dollar bill and letter from a retired lieutenant colonel.

Renewed war in S. Vietnam feared as Hanoi buildup nears peak

By WARREN L. NELSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Analysts disagree on whether Hanoi plans a full scale offensive in South Vietnam but are virtually unanimous that Communist forces in the south are once again powerful enough "to spill a lot of blood."

One official said, "If you were the boss of North Vietnam and asked General Giap (Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap), 'can you go now?' he'd say 'yes.'"

That buildup—all in violation of the January cease-fire which permitted only one-for-one replacements of military equipment is one reason secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet next week in Paris with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The Pentagon has said officially that it doesn't expect a countrywide Communist offensive soon. But many analysts around the Pentagon, State Department and CIA do indeed suspect Hanoi will unleash another major attack in a matter of months or even weeks;

Those analysts who foresee no big attacks say Hanoi has not mobilized its reserves or sent extra men south ready to replace the casualties that result from any big offensive. They note that one of the tipoffs to the 1972 Easter offensive was that replacements started down the Ho Chi Minh Trail early.

But others who foresee a new outbreak say Hanoi no longer needs to start feeding replacement troops into the trail four months in advance of need. The trail, they say, has been improved with gravel and corrugated steel to speed travel and with culverts to funnel rain water away from the road. These analysts say Hanoi would not need to start replacements south until the eve of a big push.

"They've had one hell of a lot of blood spilled and there's going to be some more," one source said.

While there are differing views of Hanoi's intentions, there is strong agreement on her capabilities:

—There are now 600 to 700 Communist tanks inside South Vietnam compared to 400 at the beginning of the 1972 offensive and 100 at the cease-fire last January.

—About 100,000 men have been infiltrated into South Vietnam since the cease-fire giving Hanoi an army of approximately 250,000.

—North Vietnam has built an impressive anti-aircraft defense network inside South Vietnam— which some officers say is evidence of the communist respect for Saigon's Air Force. Since the cease-fire Hanoi has doubled the number of air defense regiments from 12 to 23 with 1,000 weapons concentrated in the Quang Tri area that North Vietnam bit off in the last offensive; it has installed surface-to-air missiles around the airstrip at Khe Sanh, although these are SAM2s, not the more sophicated SAM3s and SAM6s that the Egyptians used in the Yom Kippur war.

—Hanoi has built about 200 miles of all-weather, gravel roads inside South Vietnam.

—An oil pipeline now can carry fuel all the way from China to northern Cambodia, and numerous spur lines take fuel from the main line down Laos into the troop areas inside South Vietnam.

Different sources in different interviews gave slightly different figures because the estimating process is far from precise. One source commented, "The North Vietnamese don't pass their stuff through a turnstile so we can count it."

The cease-fire agreement requires that the International Commission of Control and Supervision monitor the supply of one for one replacements. But not one single item has been checked by the four-power ICCS in the ten months since the cease-fire, officials said.

The level of local fighting has increased substantially in the past few weeks. there is general agreement the fighting in the far south is designed to gather rice for the troops and that the battles along the Cambodian border are for the purpose of controlling routes for the communists' expanding road network.

Some feel Hanoi also wants to link the pockets she controls now so she can organize something that looks like a real nation instead of a series of spots.

Boston Tea Party, 1973: Nixon tarred, feathered

BOSTON (UPI) — President Nixon was tarred and feathered in effigy Sunday as 20,000 persons watched the re-enactment of the Boston Tea Party 200 years after the historic event.

Demonstrators threw oil barrels into Boston harbor from the deck of a reproduction of an 18th century sailing vessel in what they termed the "Boston Oil Party." The re-enactment of the tea party was the opening event of the nation's celebration of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution.

The crowd gathered in snow that turned to cold rain as a large papier-mache effigy of the President was rowed about in a small boat.

A voice from a loudspeaker asked: "How may people think he should be taken to the boat and hung?"

There was an enormous cheer.

"Is anybody opposed?" the loudspeaker asked.

There was silence.

The official Boston Bicentennial Committee to mark the 200th anniversary of the day Americans pitched packages of tea off a British ship into Boston Harbor to protest policies of Britain's King George III.

But the official reenactment was overshadowed by the socalled "Oil Party" staged by the "People's Bicentennial Commission" to demand the impeachment of Nixon and protest the policies of the major oil companies in dealing with the energy crisis.

Members of various veterans' groups, dressed in colonial costume, dropped wooden crates over the side of the Beaver II, a replica of one of the ships boarded in the original Tea Party 200 years ago. Minutes later, they cheered as the demonstrators, also dressed in eighteenth century garb, boarded the brig from several small boats, and hoisted banners demanding Nixon's impeachment into the rigging of the ship.

An effigy of the president was tarred and feathered in the custom of punishing criminals in the 1700s and passed through the cheering crowd.

Plans to hold the anti-Nixon demonstration has been announced for several days and officials and police made no move to interfere with the demonstrators.

The Beaver II, where the reenactment took place, is a 75-foot two-masted brig that was built in England and sailed across the Atlantic this fall. It is moored in Boston's Fort Point Channel, only a few yards from the site of the original Tea Party at Griffin's Warf.

VC war plans backed by Tho

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnamese peace negotiator Le Duc Tho said today North Vietnam will support the Viet Cong in any military action against the South Vietnamese army.

"In the face of continuous and grave violations of the (Paris peace) agreement by the Saigon administration with U.S. encouragement and support, there is no reason for the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam (Viet Cong) to stand idly by and let the other side do what it will," he said.

"The government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam fully supports the PRG position to take any action to punish the acts of war committed by the Saigon administration in violation of the cease-fire."

Court order defied, strike cuts off Detroit food supply

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite a federal court injunction forbidding a strike, truck drivers, warehousemen and dock workers walked off the job today, and set up picket lines that stopped delivery of food supplies to 400 supermarkets that serve 4.75 million consumers.

The walkout came three hours after U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton issued the Sunday injunction. Supermarket managers had warned a strike could "cause irreparable harm" to Detroit area residents.

A meeting was scheduled today with federal mediators and the two sides indicated they will attempt to resolve the conflict that is affecting 80 per cent of the supermarkets in the Detroit area.

About 150 of the 2,000 members of Teamster Local 337 were at the 94-acre Allied Supermarket complex, a large warehouse in suburban Livonia. Other pickets were reported at Kroger, Chatham, Great Scott and Wrigley warehouses.

Store managers said they had been stockpiling for the past several days in anticipation of the strike, but indicated they believe their extra stock would not last long.

Thornton's injunction Sunday came as thousands of panicky shoppers in the nation's fourth largest city crowded into supermarkets in an effort to stockpile food supplies on the eve of the holiday season.

"This is the worst possible time for something like this to happen," said Dan Carpenters, vice president of Borman Foods, Inc., which operates 87 Farmer Jack Stores. "With the holidays right around the corner and people buying heavily already, we expect very serious shortages to develop almost immediately."

Progress made as food strike talks continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the Federal Mediation Service said today "considerable progress" has been made toward settling Southern California's food strike but several serious issues remain.

"Every effort is being made to reach an agreement so the people can get back to work," William J. Usery Jr. said at the conclusion of a marathon session which lasted from 11 a.m. Sunday until 9:30 a.m. today.

Negotiators were scheduled to reconvene at 7:30 p.m. So far they have met for some 50 hours since talks opened here at 2 p.m. Friday.

"Considerable progress has been made in the negotiations," Usery said, "but several serious issues are still to be resolved."

L.V. Council must make decision

Open-space rule needed

LA VERNE — A spunky Planning Commission will make another attempt tonight to sell the City Council on the need for open space — this time citing a state law that requires adoption of such a plan by Jan. 1.

The council had eviscerated the commission's land conservation program, included in the general plan, by reducing it to only a sixth of its proposed size two months ago.

Then the council sent the general plan back to the commission for further study and approval.

But, according to Planning Director Charles R. Le Gros, unless the council adopts some open-space plan the city will be unable to issue any building permits after Jan. 1.

He said there were a number of large developments ready to go next month.

So rather than to wait for the adoption of the entire general plan which can take another two months — thus causing a two-month delay in building activities — the commission decided to lift the opens-space element out of the general plan and present it to the council separately.

In doing so, the commission has picked up the entire area which the council had lopped off — about 220 acres in and around the city — and put it back into the new open-space map.

The council will have to decide tonight for the second time what to do about open space. It can approve the Planning Commission's proposal or it can trim it to suit itself. But to satisfy the state, it has to pass an open-space plan by Jan. 1.

The council is also expected to take action tonight on the third phase of its general plan — the part that deals with the area south of Foothill Boulevard and east of B Street.

Since public hearings on the plan are over, the council will consider action requested by property owners on six parcels of land.

The council also is scheduled to resume a public hearing at 8 p.m. on whether to modify or revoke the permit of the Glenhaven Convalescent Hospital which its neighbors claim is a public nuisance.

The neighbors say the hospital permits mentally retarded patients to make noises throughout the night and to show themselves without clothes outside the hospital.

Caustic burns man's eyes; woman held

POMONA — A woman was accused of throwing ammonia into her son-in-law's face Saturday night during a family row.

The victim, Dana Jefferson, 22, was treated for burned corneas by a specialist at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Police later arrested Jefferson's mother-in-law, Lorise Lynn, 40, 838 E. La Verne Ave., and booked her on suspicion of assault with a caustic chemical.

They charged that Mrs. Lynn was admitted to the Jeffersons' apartment at 1320 S. Eleanor St., where she tossed ammonia into Jefferson's face because she disagreed with him about disciplining her grandson.

Mrs. Lynn charged that Jefferson had been harassing her and had beaten her up earlier.

Burglar steals as choir sings

UPLAND — A burglar pried open a locked cabinet and stole four purses belonging to choir members Sunday during worship services at the First Mennonite Church, 379 N. Campus Ave., police reported.

Police said the choir members after services returned to the locker and found their purses containing money and credit cards stolen by a thief.

Holiday program by Margarita School planned

MONTCLAIR — Margarita School will hold its holiday program at Serrano Junior High School Wednesday night at 7:30.

Children from all grade levels will perform under the direction of Mrs. Carol Rockwood. Included in the program will be the fifth and sixth grade chorus, songs by the kindergarten classes.

Thief takes purse, $1,300

ONTARIO — Florence Martinez of 118 E. Francis Ave., told police Sunday that someone had stolen her purse containing $1,300 in cash at the Spot Bar, 716 Bon View ave.

Fire hospitalizes 2 men in family

POMONA — A fire caused minor damage but a great deal of excitement in the Thomas Hamm residence Sunday afternoon.

Hamm, 43, of 1046 Tylene St., suffered an asthmatic attack and was taken by ambulance to Pomona Valley Community Hospital along with his son, Thomas Hamm III, 20, who was overcome by smoke from the fire that burned portions of a shed adjacent to the house.

Both men were trying to put out the fire with a garden hose when they became ill. Firemen used a resuscitator and emergency procedures to revive the men until an amublance arrived.

They wre treated and later released from the hospital Sunday afternoon.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the shed where another son, Dwayne, 13, was cleaning his bicycle with gasoline.

Firemen said he told them he lit the cardboard that was under his bike "to see if if would catch on fire."

Talking Santa perfect gift for Christmas

BELLEVUE, Wash. (UPI) — Little Kathy Wilson was never able to make Santa Claus understand what she wanted, that is not until this year.

Kathy, a 7-year-old deaf mute, beamed with delight as Stuart Seaborn, the department store Santa, began communicating with her in sign language.

Seaborn said he had been disturbed by his inability to communicate directly with deaf mute children during six seasons as a Santa, so he learned how.

"You ought to see them when they realize I can talk with my hands," Seaborn said. "Their eyes get as big as manhole covers."

Kathy's 6-year-old brother Jeff may have put it best. "I'm sure this is the real Santa because he can talk with Kathy," he said.

Brawl leaves five men dead

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — A motorcycle gang brawl with guns, pool cues and chair legs left four persons dead and five in hospitals, and police held eight persons in custody today while they sought to learn what touched off the fighting.

A Flint hospital reported a fifth man died today from injuries suffered in the brawl between two gangs early Sunday, but homicide detectives said the report was wrong.

Police said in addition to the five persons hospitalized, at least six persons were hurt badly enough to require medical treatment.

Year-round school on agenda in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont school board tonight at 8:30 will receive a status report on the year-round program at Oakmont Elementary School.

Asst. Supt. Margaret Hodder and Oakmont Principal Dorothy Bromage attended a conference on year-round schools in San Diego in November and will share their experiences as well as comment on the local program which was started the past July.

The board also will receive a report on the status of the district's response to the current energy crisis, and a progress report on the Sycamore and La Puerta landscaping projects.

Board members will discuss paying themselves for the board meetings they attend under the allowances of Assembly Bill 1489, which sets the pay according to the district's average daily attendance.

Griswold's
"Where Food is Made with Butter 'n' Love"

Griswold's Old School House will carry on the tradition of Las Posadas, which is enacted just prior to Christmas every year in Mexico. It starts with the wanderers, Mary and Joseph, and their friends going from house to house seeking a room for the night on their way to Bethlehem. The wanderers carry candles and sing traditional carols.

When they finally reach a spot that will house them for the night, they are joyous and celebrate with the breaking of a large pinata. Children scramble for the prizes and candy which are inside the pinata.

This ceremony will be a feature every evening beginning December 16th to the 23rd at 6:30 p.m. Bring the family and join the candlelight procession.

PAID POLITICAL ADV.

Assemblyman Jerry Lewis A new Senator.

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was the first candidate in San Bernardino County to make full financial disclosure—including his 1972 IRS Return and a financial statement of his personal holdings and net worth.

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis introduced a first to American politics—full disclosure of all campaign mailers—in advance of mailing. To restore public confidence in our elective process and to put an end to false and misleading charges and smears, Assemblyman Jerry Lewis has released copies of all campaign mailers to the press, prior to mailing, and he has challenged every candidate in this special election to make the same disclosure.

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was the first elected representative to take a stand against deceitful and impersonal computer letters in elections

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis had the courage to call for the phase-out and elimination of special interest financing of political campaigns—by encouraging more local citizen involvement in our elective process.

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was one of the first representatives to oppose lowering air quality standards due to the energy crisis. Jerry Lewis has sponsored many strong anti-pollution measures which have become law. Lewis says: "We've fought too long and hard in the battle against smog to let up now."

1973... Assemblyman Jerry Lewis received the enthusiastic endorsement of the California Association of Highway Patrolmen in the December 18th special election for State Senator. Law enforcement considers Jerry Lewis a friend. As our Assemblyman, Jerry Lewis has consistently supported programs and legislation to strengthen law enforcement and improve crime preventive measures and techniques.

In 1972, Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was re-elected to the California State Legislature by a margin in excess of 72%—representing across-the-board support from Republicans, Democrats and Independents.

1973... Special Election for State Senator... Here's what's being said today about Assemblyman Jerry Lewis ... LABOR—"... he has consistently demonstrated a deep concern for the welfare of the working man and woman... sincerely dedicated to improving the quality of life and working conditions for all the citizens of San Bernardino County."—E. P. Westmoreland, Executive Secretary of the San Bernardino-Riverside Building and Construction Trades Council... REPUBLICANS—Assemblyman Jerry Lewis "... demonstrating intelligence, responsibility, courage and sound judgement."—San Bernardino County Republican Central Committee... DEMOCRATS—"We're going to do something this week that we have never done before—we're going to recommend a Republican for elective office..." Jerry Lewis "... has the courage, the broad view and the savvy to do our work there better than anyone who has come forward."—Mountain News, Democratic newspaper (11/22/73)

Sacramento has learned what the people of San Bernardino County have long known: Jerry Lewis is a dynamic, aggressive, independent leader who gets things done. His solid record of achievement, his fresh creative approach to the challenges of our state, and his dedication to the principles of sound government, have clearly marked him as a leader and the overwhelming choice for our new state senator in '74!

Five-year-old Nicole Harrison joins Diamond Point School girls doing routine in cheerleading contest Saturday sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department. The school placed second in competition for groups of 15 girls each or more. Harrison School was city-wide winner.

PARTISAN CROWD

Students from Pomona's Harrison Elementary School explode with joy upon hearing an announcement naming the school sweepstakes winner in the cheerleading contest for elementary school girls Saturday at the Emerson Junior High School gymnasium. Shown at lower right wearing sun glasses is Edna Scott, Harrison School recreation leader. The competition was entered by 15 schools, drew 350 girls, 200 spectators.

Claremont cuts down power use

CLAREMONT — City Manager Keith Mulrooney has directed city employes to join the energy conservation program by driving less than 55 miles an hour and engaging in a "system carpool program."

"City employes are strongly encouraged to participate," Mulrooney said. "All employes should consider forms of transportation which can serve as an alternative to the use of private vehicles to get to and from work."

Mulrooney said that all regularly scheduled coffee breaks taken by city employes will be taken either at the immediate work site or at a nearby location not requiring city vehicular transportation.

All field personnel have been directed to take their lunch breaks at the nearest city facility with water, shelter, or restroom facilities.

Mulrooney said that all city lighting should be reduced or turned off whenever practical in city facilities, and that decorative lighting also will be turned off.

Mulrooney ordered thermostats set at a maximum of 68 degrees for heating and minimum of 78 degrees for cooling.

He said that before equipment requiring fuel is bought by the city, it will undergo thorough review of comparative energy consumption.

Fire and police units also came in under the energy program. Patrol cars will have their engines and emergency equipment turned off except radios whenever practical at traffic stops.

Engines on fire pumpers involved in company inspections shall be turned off.

ACTION LINE

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Organization is looking for veterans needing help

I represent a group of volunteers who exist with one purpose, to help any veteran and veteran's family in any way we can.

We are members of the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Veterans of World War I, Jewish War Veterans and the Order of the Purple Heart.

We ask our readers to let us know if they have a relative or a neighbor who is in a veterans hospital.

Here are a few questions for them to ask themselves so that we can help more effectively:

Does the veteran or family need transportation to the veterans hospital?

Does the veteran want or need visitors?

Does he have material needs?

Does he need help with forms or letters?

If the veteran has no connections with any church or religious group, can we help fill that lack?

If there are no church affiliations, does the family or veteran in either a veterans hospital or private hospital need assistance with funeral arrangements?

Call 624-5883 day or night. If there is no answer, call again. — R. S., Montclair.

You asked us to depart from our "initials only" rule to identify you as Ralph A. Shaw Sr., deputy chief of staff for the Eight District, Disabled American Veterans, and service officer of Pomona Post 30, American Legion.

Those who find it inconvenient to reach you by telephone may write to you at 4400 Holt Ave., Montclair, 91763.

I purchased a stereo set from an Ontario store two years ago. Three months ago I took it to the store to be repaired. I had a two-year parts and labor warranty on the set. The people at the store said the warranty was an error on their part but since it was in writing on my sales slip, they were willing to fix the set.

They said it would take six weeks to make the repair. That was nearly three months ago. When I called today and lost my temper, they told me the wrong part had been sent from New York and it would probably take another week. I would appreciate any help you can give me. — B.G., Claremont.

We waited the week they specified and three days extra but you didn't get your set. Then we asked them to keep their promise, mistake or no mistake, and return the set repaired. They did.

Two and a half months ago I ordered a "5" Minute Body Shaper. I mailed a check for $11.50.

Last month I received the canceled check so I know they got my order. Why haven't they delivered it? — C. R., La Verne.

I sent for the 15-minute Beauty Renewal Plan face cream three months ago and I haven't heard one thing. Now I want my money back. — G. H., Pomona

We wrote to the firm which handles these two products. Each letter was returned with a notation that the ordered product was being shipped.

We are sorry you got the face cream instead of the refund you requested, G. H., but we can tell this is going to be a beautiful Christmas.

Drunks on road, sidewalk are holiday police target

POMONA — Drunken drivers and drunken pedestrians will not be tolerated in traffic during the holidays, Police Chief F. P. Wallick warned today.

To make streets safe, 17,000 officers will patrol Los Angeles County with a determination to arrest drunken drivers and tipsy pedestrians before accidents occur, he said.

Last year the holiday safety program in the county helped reduce traffic fatalities to 17 from a high of 41 the previous year.

"Pomona will join 77 other cities in the county in a campaign to better last year's safety achievement," Wallick said.

The annual holiday safety program was initiated by the Los Angeles County Peace Officers Association in cooperation with the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of the National Safety Council.

Crisis fuels power fights in capitol

We shall all go through a great deal more suffering than necessary from fuel shortages in the months ahead because of frivolous human bottlenecks and vanities.

A highly-placed scientist in a key agency submitting an urgent energy report to his top boss was asked only one question: 'Will this program bring me the most publicity?".

A White House insider admits to programs being held up by battles over whose empire will be expanded.

A government official investigating the reason several major companies were stalling on adopting proven methods of fuel saving found the managers were afraid that taking action at this time would leave them open to charges of previous inefficiency.

One technical man reports so many industrial managers have regularly refused to deal with energy-saving innovations that American inventors have been forced to go to Europe to get their ideas marketed.

An engineer official reports that an inter-agency meeting on the energy problem he attended recently bogged down so heavily in ideological discussions nothing could be accomplished. He came away with the conviction some officials are more interested in agonizing over philosophy than in attacking the technical problems. They just won't leave policy to the President and congress, he complains.

Other officials found some bureaucrats so rapidly anti-Nixon they're fighting any energy ideas from the White House. On the opposite side of the fence, some Nixon appointees blindly oppose any ideas which don't serve political ends.

A Congressman says that eager-beaver senators and representatives have put 300 to 400 energy bills in the hopper to get in on this crisis bandwagon. Few of these men, he says, really understand fuel-energy business. Their self-serving bills only add to the confusion and delay. But their activity brings favorable letters from constituents back home.

A confirmed environmentalist told his colleagues that Congressmen attempting to jump on the environmental bandwagon and those submitting to the pressure of strong antiipollution groups have voted for laws which are indefensible from any scientific standpoint, laws which severely handicap attempts at conserving energy and increasing fuel production.

A bureaucrat fumes at agencies which resist energy-saving and production-incentive programs which call for redefinitions of their objectives, even when the proposals would strongly benefit the nation in this crisis — exceptions to the anti-trust laws which would make posible joint industry funding and cooperation in energy savings and energy increasing programs, expansion of rapid tax writeoff systems and tax exemption programs to encourage more fuel economy and fuel substitution innovations, allocation of scarce materials to assist those industries which take high-risk gambles in fuel production and fuel efficiencey, and government testing of new technology to reduce somewhat the industrial risks involved.

Says one scientist-official: we must face the fact that throughout much of American industry and government there has been for some time an increasing reluctance by high officials to stake their careers on high-risk ventures, whether in energy or anything else.

Home brew

Some timely reporting by the Christian Science Monitor turns up a group of energy crisis sharpies obviously more imaginative than the prospective hoarders who in recent days have cleaned out automotive and surplus stores of virtually every container which will hold gasoline.

Farmers in Connecticut, Indiana and California were reported running machinery ranging from stoves, electrical generators, heaters and even automobiles on home-brewed gas. Unfortunately for most city dwellers the principal ingredients for the process were chicken, cow and hog manure mixed with a judicious amount of vegetable matter.

Anaerobic decay of the mixture produces methane gas, similar to the natural gas now in worldwide short supply, and burning methane makes the wheels go 'round.

Technologically, experts say that the four to five pounds of trash generated by every American every day also could produce about 15 pounds of methane — enough to meet 8 to 10 per cent of the nation's present need.

Unfortunately, like so many other projects which seem technically feasible but somehow aren't given sufficient priority, this type of conversion isn't likely to happen soon enough to ease the present squeeze.

Light for the ages

While man in his puny way wrestles with the crises of energy and war and pestilence, the inner soul of the Christian world once again lifts its eyes to the light of His life laid down to expiate our sins.

Christmas 1973, in much of the world, will shine more of its own brilliance than the tinsel and lights so gaily used to decorate for the season in much of the world. Man's light is dimmer this year just as man's ability to live in peace with himself has dimmed.

But Christmas, its meaning, His love are enduring and shine all the more brightly because of our frailties. It is a time when God's message remembered might well bring peace on earth and good will to all.

Skies still friendly to Spiro Agnew

WASHINGTON — Former Vice President Spiro Agnew still has enough clout to bump less celebrated passengers from their airline seats.

He still travels with a Secret Service escort. With two bodyguards running interference, he barged ahead of other passengers waiting in line at New York City's LaGuardia airport for the 4 p.m. Eastern shuttle flight to Washington on Dec. 6.

Among the displaced passengers were two Senate aides, Charles Bangert and Gerald Hellerman, who had been working all day on the energy crisis.

After Agnew had been comfortably seated with his Secret Service protectors alongside him, there was still one empty seat. The passenger ahead of Bangert and Hellerman was offered the space. "No thanks," replied the ruffled traveler. "I wouldn't ride on the same airplane with that man."

The bumped passengers were obliged to wait 21 minutes for a second shuttle plane.

An Eastern Airlines spokesman told us that Agnew was given special treatment at the request of the Secret Service. A Secret Service spokesman said the agents had made the request "to facilitate his security." Our repeated calls to Agnew's office brought no response.

FOOTNOTE: Eastern Airlines also gave favored treatment recently to President Nixon's friend Bebe Rebozo. Columnist Maxine Cheshire reported that a passenger aboard a Miami-to-Washington airliner was persuaded to give up her first-class seat and move back into the coach compartment in order to provide Rebozo with a comfortable seat. Rebozo was also delivered to the door of the plane in a limousine, with an Eastern official carrying his bags.

PRIVILEGED PASSENGERS: Spiro Agnew isn't the only bigwig, apparently, who gets special travel privileges.

While lesser Americans are scrambling for reservations during the holidays, their congressmen will get favored treatment.

On Dec. 10, Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., the House Democratic whip, sent a memo to his colleagues telling of "special arrangements" to assist them with their travel plans during the "adjournment period and the Christmas holidays."

Confides the memo: "Members experiencing difficulties in securing desired reservatipns may receive assistance by calling the congressional desks of the cooperating airlines." A listing of the priority phone numbers of 11 major airlines is thoughtfully provided.

"AMTRAK travelers," adds the McFall memo, may also "receive assistance" by calling special numbers.

McFall happens to be chairman of the Transportation Appropriations subcommittee, which controls the pursestrings for airlines and railroads. A spokesman for him conceded that "it's only because of the committee he's on that we could ask for help."

The request for congressional priority went out to both the Air Transport Association and to AMTRAK. Although the memo asserts that both "indicated they will do all they can to assist Members under these difficult circumstances," spokesman for both ATA and AMTRAK said the special telephone numbers will provide the congressmen a hearing but not necessarily a seat.

PLAYING POLITICS: The administration has been playing quiet politics with the $2.2 billion arms shipments to Israel.

Rush orders of rockets, shells, bombs and bullets, costing close to $1 billion, were flown to the Middle East. The remaining $1.2 billion worth of military hardware, most of it heavy and bulky, will be delivered by ship probably after the first of the year.

Competent sources have told us that the timing of the deliveries may depend upon the flexibility of the Israeli government in the Middle East negotiations.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, has indicated it may ask for $3 billion to make up for the $2.2 billion in armaments sent to Israel, contending that the replacements will be more costly than the original procurement.

This argument, however, doesn't allow for depreciation. In other words, the Pentagon is using the Middle East crisis to replace old equipment with new.

The Pentagon is also telling Congress that the airlift to Israel demonstrated that the United States needs more giant cargo planes. The biggest difficulty with the airlift, say our sources, was not the lack of planes but the refusal of Greece, Spain and Turkey to allow the planes to use U.S. bases in those countries.

FOOTNOTE: Our sources also report that the White House is making quiet appeals for Jewish support on Watergate, citing President Nixon's arms aid to Israel. Some Jewish congressmen have confirmed to us that delegations of rabbis have called on them to ease their pressure on the President over the Watergate scandals.

Migraine helped by electric earrings

Angel, years ago, suffered from migraine headaches. Knowing her husband, you figure he's enough to give anyone a pain sometimes. But we're not talking about "tension headaches"; we're talking about that most horrendous, disabling combination of dizziness, nausea and throbbing pain known as "migraine."

Significant alike to the sufferers and to those who love them is something new and simple — electrically charged earrings.

My fascination with electrophysiology has led you through an exploration of several medical applications of electricity which most of us construe to be "new."

Yet I have one textbook by an English neurologist, Dr. W. A. Gowers, describing how he treated neuralgia and neuritis effectively with acupuncture needles charged with low-voltage electricity in 1893!

As recently as now, Dr. Max Sadov, in charge of the pain clinic at prestigious Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago, reports an impressive 85 per cent favorable response by migraine sufferers in some degree to acupuncture employing electrically charged needles for increased nerve stimulation.

Dr. Alex Arieff of Northwestern University's medical staff is adapting this technique in a manner which may eventuate in a "home remedy" for symptomatic relief of migraine as simple as electrically charged earrings.

The first earrings adapted Dr. Arieff purchased from Sears for $3. Unlike electrodes which must penetrate or be glued to the skin, these clip-on earrings hold themselves in place while a mildly sensational — a tingling — low-voltage current is induced.

The headache is usually relieved or gone within 30 minutes. So simple and inexpensive is the device that similar ones are in use in Taiwan for at-home treatment of drug withdrawal symptoms.

American physicians, properly skeptical of electronic gadgetry, necessarily advance with caution. What I have described is "exploratory experimental."

It will take a good many physicians of the stature of these I have named "sticking their necks out," so to speak, before a technique this revolutionary will be refined, accepted or imitated.

There remains one school of scientific thought convinced that such remedies employ nothing more than self-hypnosis. Yet the person with a throbbing, sick headache is less likely to care what the remedy involves it it's harmless and if it works.

Parade aftermath

The Prog Photographer overlooked one graphic picture of "THE PARADE IN POMONA." What an example of the Christmas spirit! . . .of civic pride!

X'mas tree

It seems Congress is trying to make every piece of legislation a X'mas tree.

Thus the pending emergency energy legislation (32589) by Senator Jackson (D. Wash.) provides jobless compensation, extra food stamps, etc.

Senate action on Rail-Reorganization contemplates expensive labor protection provisions. Since feather bedding was such a factor in bankrupting the railroads, additional benefits appear questionable.

Pork barrel tactics slow down essential legislation. We should expect our representatives to keep legislation relevant, so that it may be properly considered.—Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Gossip for today

In a country which is able to supply its citizens with 200 different kinds of sausages, with horoscopes for their pets, and bathroom radios that also hold a roll of toilet paper, nothing is impossible. It is American ingenuity and inventive genius such as that which revives my faith in our country's future. I just remind myself of all those wonders which have already been accomplished and realize that American know-how is bound to come up with a quick and easy solution to our energy problems.

INSIDE REPORT

V.P. Ford no patsy for Nixon

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Vice President Gerald Ford, whose swearing-in evoked the only genuine political sentimentality in the Capitol since the Watergate scandals, has dismayed supporters by rejecting important advice from long-time political intimates.

Advice No. 1: That Ford forego his annual skiing vacation over the Christmas holidays and stay in Washington, thus building the "take-charge" image of a Vice President in a unique situation who is fully equipped to lead the country if Richard Nixon falls.

Advice No. 2: That Ford hire a sophisticated politician of wide experience as his chief aide to run a serious Ford staff largely independent of the White House and capable of tackling major issues.

Having been in office only one week, Jerry Ford has plenty of time to create the impressive staff his supporters envision. The disappointment is real, however, that on the strength of a pledge to his long-time administrative aide, Robert T. Hartmann, he has now made Hartmann his chief of staff.

"Bob Hartmann is a bright guy and a tough guy, but he rubs almost everyone the wrong way without even knowing it," one Ford intimate told us. In sum, Hartmann falls short of the dynamism that Ford allies feel is needed, even though his toughness will be an asset in predictable battles between the Ford and the Nixon staffs.

Bright spot in staff

One bright spot in the new Ford staff is Kenneth Belieu, a former Lyndon Johnson aide who served in high Pentagon jobs for both President Kennedy and President Nixon. Belieu will run Ford's legislative affairs office, and he has high prestige with Congress.

Ford's staff is just beginning to grow. Major changes — including the all-important spot of staff chief — cannot be ruled out in the future. Far more important to Ford, as the only Vice President in history chosen by Congress on the recommendation of a President, is his political relationship with Mr. Nixon and the Republican party. It is here that the decision not to postpone his skiing vacation until February may have cost Ford a symbolic advantage.

As one Republican elder told us: "The President is going South or West, Congress is going home, but the political crisis over Nixon's future, the energy thing and the Middle East will stay right here in Washington. Ford should stay here, too, to show that he is different and to begin to fill that terrible leadership vacuum."

But Ford chose Christmas as usual, a hint that he will not allow himself to become a foil for Republicans who want the President to resign. Moreover, no sooner had Ford been sworn in than he began a major defensive sweep for the President, clearing him of Watergate blame and praising his release of personal financial data.

Political friends bothered

That is precisely what bothers Ford's political friends, and other Republicans well to Ford's left, who see the party's only salvation in Ford replacing Mr. Nixon well before the 1974 general election. For these Republicans, Ford's first week was vaguely disquieting.

Yet, Ford himself is well aware of the risks of becoming a White House patsy. For example, Mr. Nixon at first insisted that the Ford swearing-in be a Nixon operation, held in the White House. Ford, backed by the entire congressional leadership of both parties, said no.

What helped finally persuade the President was Ford's private word, spoken with candor, that a walk down the House aisle with Ford might enhance the beleaguered President.

Perhaps more significant, despite his reputation for following the letter of any presidential command, Ford at least once in the recent past flatly refused to do the White House bidding in a matter involving high and confidential national politics. The reason: Ford thought it would be personally dishonorable.

In short, despite Ford's seeming lack of guile, he has shown he can sharply circumscribe his obligations to Mr. Nixon.

Whether sharply enough remains to be seen. He is walking a tightrope as hand-picked Vice President to an all but fallen President. To fulfill his obligations to his party and to the presidency (as opposed to the President), his closest political friends feel he must not become front-man for Mr. Nixon, but instead the No. 2 man in the nation.

Christmas parades are elementary, kids at Newman School demonstrate

CHINO — The spirit of holiday parades is kept alive in this West End community by the nearly 800 students at Newman Elementary School as they prepare floats and Christmas fare for a "mini" parade Thursday morning at 10:30.

Norm Hoffmann, principal, announced the parade this week that will hopefully become a traditional, annual affair.

"We started it last year as part of our mentally gifted minor (MGM) activities. As you know, last year the Chino Christmas parade was canceled and the kids got the idea from that," Hoffman explained.

"We're now trying to make it a traditional, annual affair. This year we've opened it to other rooms and groups like the Brownies, baton twirlers, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts."

The school, located at Pipeline and Walnut avenues, is now in a flurry of Christmas activities, with Christmas projects, holiday shadow boxes, paper trees, Christmas stockings and a multitude of pictures of Santa Claus, snow flakes and gaily wrapped gift boxes.

The principal expects 10 to 12 floats, each pulled by wooden wagons and "kid power." The floats are made of paper mache and a variety of items gathered from home and pooled from school resources.

"All the floats are made by the kids. They use their own imagination and make them in the classrooms with help from the teachers. It's a school-wide thing," he said.

Five perpetual trophies will be awarded in the categories of sweepstakes, and teachers', students', PTA and principal's selections.

The parade will begin near the multipurpose room, circle around along the primary blacktop to the upper grade blacktop and to the administration building.

Mrs. Marvell Pruitt, teacher and MGM coordinator, is the organizer behind the holiday trot around campus. Her class last year provided the impetus for the parade.

Floats will feature a variety of holiday themes from the fantasy of Frosty the Snowman to the call for "Peace on Earth" to the spiritual quality of a manger scene.

For those West End residents who miss the cheer of a Christmas parade, the Newman School staff invites them to tag along.

For Tuesday, Dec. 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In a situation where someone else is making decisions in matters important to you, their consideration tilts in your favor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will profit more today if you think in terms of sharing. Look out for the other guy. He'll see your interests are protected.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's a good period to develop recently made social contacts. One new friend is worth knowing better. Your interests are in harmony.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This would be a good day to invite the boss home to dinner. In a relaxed atmosphere, problems can be worked out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Now you can get the co-operation of someone who can help advance your interests. Make a date to meet face-to-face.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're unusually sharp in spotting material advantages if you put your mind to it. An offbeat proposition looks profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In meeting today's problems don't overrehearse what you're going to do or say. Let your answers come naturally.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone you once did a favor for hasn't forgotten your kindness. Don't be surprised if you're paid back unexpectedly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep your plans for today flexible. You'll want to be free for something more interesting that will pop up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Advantages important to your ambitions can be gained today, but stay on your toes. Move quickly when opportunity knocks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) At this time, look ahead a bit. Be certain what you're presently doing will tie into your hopes for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An association you presently have is very beneficial for you. Some advantages are obvious; others will take time to fully appreciate.

your birthday
Dec. 18

Unusual benefits will come to you this year through new friends. It will pay to make many new contacts. Be more active in club, organizational work.

Handbell choir to be Christmas program

As its Christmas luncheon program, Pomona Ebell will feature the Peace Ringers, a handbell choir composed of teen-age youths from the First United Methodist Church in Orange.

The Peace Ringers have been active for six years and have rung over 175 concerts since August 1970 including church, community organizations and conventions.

During their 1971-72 season, they recorded and sold 1000 L.P. stereo records featuring music played in the spring of 1971. They have just recorded their 1973 concert music.

The director, Mrs. Wesley Marquart, is a member of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers and the Chorister's Guild of America. She now supervises three groups of handbell ringers. Bell ringing requires a special discipline not characteristic of other groups and demands cooperation, concentration and perfection for performances.

Guests at the holiday luncheon will be greeted at the door by Mmes. Frank McMahon, Thomas Johnson, Oscar Glueck, Charlotte Wangler and John Coutts.

Bad ones forgotten

Director doubts if older films better than new

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — William Wyler, one of a handful of great directors, looked back on forty years of movie making and doubted very much if the heralded pictures of the 40s and 50s were any better than today's films.

"It's debatable," said the man who began directing westerns in 1929 for $60 a week. "Television only shows the good pictures from the past. None of the bad ones are put on the air. Mercifully, the bad ones are forgotten.

"If movies aren't making as much money as they used to, it cannot be blamed on the young directors. The box office is not a measure of quality.

"I've had some box office failures—'The Liberation of L. B. Jones' and 'The Collector' to name a couple—that were critical successes.

"There are some good new directors around who like to show off with the camera. These young men are tempted to draw attention to themselves because they are not up there on the screen with the actors. Many critics fall for this and think they are watching genius.

"When I began the critics never paid any attention to the director. Today they pay too much attention to him and what he's thinking and doing. This only encourages the director to use more camera tricks.

"Directors have become a disturbing element in pictures, dreaming up ideas about what to do with the camera. But the camera isn't a toy. A disciplined director discards an idea if it doesn't help the scene.

"John Ford hardly ever moved the cameras in his movies, and look at his enormous success over the years."

Wyler is 71 years old, slightly deaf and disinclined to work again. His life has been set down in a new biography by Alex Madsen with whom he worked on and off for a year.

"I'd never have written it myself," he said. "I'm full of admiration for Frank Capra who spent four years of his life writing his book. I am not a writer. I'm a director.

"In all my movies I was a story teller, using the medium of film. It is fashionable now not to tell a story. Directors make the audience guess at what is happening. We're left to fill in what we've seen. It's like listening to a pointless joke.

"Hitchcock always keeps the audience guessing, but he comes across with a logical ending. If he didn't have to do that he could make a dozen pictures every year."

Wyler won three Academy Awards during his active years behind the camera—for "Mrs. Miniver," "The Best Years of Our Lives" and "Ben Hur."

Curiously, none of the trio are among his favorites. He is more proud of his work on "Wuthering Heights" and "Roman Holiday."

His "Ben Hur" earned more than $70 million, and he is still catching hell from critics.

"They say I prostituted myself by doing 'Ben Hur.' I guess they thought any movie that made that much money was coarse and crude," he said. "But they loved 'The Collector' which didn't earn a dime.

"I never jumped from one picture to the next, except in my early days as a beginner. I liked to take my time, doing one film every two years.

"I am offered pictures now and enjoy saying, 'No thank you.' I didn't know until I got older how physically tiring directing is. Now I take life easy and travel all over the world.

MANY HATS — Film star Rod Steiger, man of many hats who has portrayed such personalities as Al Capone and Napoleon, is undertaking the role of former Italian dictator Benito Mussolini in a new movie. Steiger is seen with Italian actress Lisa Gastoni, who plays the role of Mussolini's mistress in the film: "Mussolino, The Last Act."

Lives alone and loves it

Kim Novak has escaped horrors that plague ex-sex goddesses

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Kim Novak has escaped the multiple horrors of the ex-sex goddess— alcoholism, lunacy, drugs, revolving door marriages and suicide.

Now almost semi-retired, Kim is 40 years old and living a life as far removed from Hollywood glamor as is possible.

She has built a new, rustic home on a 20-acre site in the mountains above Carmel, where she lives alone except for her collection of wild and domesticated animals.

The trip to Hollywood is made only for work, which is increasingly scarce. Kim is virtually a female Henry Thoreau.

"I have three dogs, four horses, a llama, a goat, four raccoons and a mynah bird," Kim said happily. "But they are the ones who come in and out of the house. There are hundreds of wild creatures—birds and rabbits and others— that I feed and care for, too."

Kim's new house has a freestanding fireplace and a soaring roof, the center of which is a skylight with stained-glass panes.

"It's wonderful to lie here on the floor and look up at the stars during the night," she said. "And in daytime the house is flooded with sunshine and rainbows from the colored glass."

Her kitchen counter extends outdoors. During meals Kim sits at the counter while a collection of small animals and birds dine outside.

Meadows and woods surround the property which is contiguous to a wild area in which she goes on long horseback rides alone. She rides bareback most of the time, guiding her horse without a bridle.

Not long ago Kim spent four weeks at MGM starring in her first television movie, "Third Girl From the Left." She regretted taking the time away from her menagerie.

"They haven't quite forgiven me yet," she said. "They couldn't understand why they had to be penned up.

"No two days are the same up here. The only routine I have is feeding the animals. My father inspired my love of nature when he took me and my sister on hikes in the woods and collected insects and small birds.

"I don't think my animals are a replacement for children. I really don't have a maternal relationship with them. They are my comrades more than anything. They teach me more than I teach them.

"When I was a girl I always wanted to be a veterinarian. That was my dream. Acting was a detour for me—an enjoyable one, but not a career I really planned. Now I'm dating a local veterinarian and couldn't be happier.

"But I'm not thinking about marriage. My life is rich and full. I don't need a husband right now.

"I believe survival lies in simple answers, the same kind that animals live by. You can't fool the animals because they react on basic instincts. It wouldn't hurt human beings to do the same."

Kim is not a reformer, nor is she a recluse. She has found her little corner of the world and is content to work only occasionally.

"My life is perfect the way it is," Kim concluded. "I can't think of any changes I'd make even if I had three wishes."

O.J. surpasses magic 2,000

Oakland, Cincinnati, Dallas win titles

By United Press International

The National Football League mathematical whizzes now can forget about playoff probabilites and possibilites and concentrate on inscribing O.J. Simpson's name into the record books.

The NFL finally sorted out its five remaining playoff berths on the final weekend of play and Simpson ended all question concerning his run at the NFL single-season rushing record by absolutely obliterating it and becoming the first player in NFL history to surpass 2,000 yards in a season.

The playoff picture shapes up this way.

In the American Conference, Miami, which wrapped up the East long ago, ended its season Saturday with a 34-7 rout of Detroit. The Dolphins will play host Sunday to Cincinnati, which had to battle to defeat Houston 27-24 and capture the Central title.

Oakland won the Western championship by holding off Denver 21 - 17 and will host Pittsburgh, which clinched a wild card berth Saturday by bombing San Francisco 33-14, in opening round playoff action Saturday. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh tied with 10-4 records but Cincinnati gained the title with a better conference record.

In the National Conference, Minnesota, the first club to clinch a title, finished up 12-12 by ripping the New York Giants 31-7. The Vikings will entertain Washington, the wild card team after downing Philadelphia 38-20, while Dallas, which won the NFC East by clubbing St. Louis 30-3, hosts Los Angeles, a 30-17 winner over Cleveland Sunday.

Buffalo routed the New York Jets 34-14 as Simpson became the first runner in history to put together three 200 yard games in a season. He carried 34 times for 200 yards to finish with 2,003 yards, wiping out Jim Brown's 10-year-old mark of 1,863.

Elsewhere, Baltimore downed New England 18-13, Kansas City trounced San Diego 33-6, Green Bay shut out Chicago 210 and Atlanta edged New Orleans 14-10.

Simpson broke Brown's record on his eighth carry of the day and went over the 2,000-yard mark with 5:56 left to play. He scored on a 13-yard run and rookie Bill Cahill returned a punt 51 yards for another score 48 seconds later to break open the game.

"This is just unbelievable," said Simpson, who broke the record on an icy, snow-covered field. "We've worked hard all year and we're just glad it worked out so well. We're the youngest team in pro football and our future looks great.

"It's been a tough week. People have been calling me all week asking me about the record and it was hard to keep it out of my mind. I just tried to concentrate on the ballgame. At first I thought the field might slow me down but as it turned out, there was no problem."

It hasn't hit me yet, but I guess it will when I get home. It's just so hard to believe."

The Bills also set a league record for team rushing yardage, going over the 3,009 mark for the season. Joe Namath had two TD passes for the Jets.

Denver gambled on a fake punt and lost and Ken Stabler turned it into the winning touchdown as Oakland edged Denver in their do-or-die battle. Oakland led 14-10 when Denver tried the fake punt on its own 49 and failed. Stabler then threw a 31-yard TD pass to Mike Siani for the margin of victory.

"We've been in six playoffs the last seven years," said Oakland Coach John Madden, "but this was the toughest one to get into. We lost to Pittsburgh and Cleveland and needed to win four in a row to get into the playoffs and we did it.

"Now we have to play Pittsburgh again. It'll be a short week, inasmuch as the game against the Steelers comes on Saturday, but we know what we have to do. We lost to the Steelers in the playoffs last year on a freak play and we got beat by them on a bad field earlier this year. There is little about them we don't know. Maybe the third time is the charm and we will beat them."

"Poor execution hurt us," said Bronco Coach John Ralston. "We had a poor snap from center, (Joe) Dawkins forgot to give the ball to (Otis) Armstrong and then ran left instead of right. If Dawkins gets the ball to Armstrong, he'd still be running. There was a hole on the right side big enough for a truck to go through."

Ken Anderson threw TD passes of 77 and 67 yards to rookie Isaac Curtis and 10 yards to Bob Trumpy as Cincinnati held off determined Houston. The Bengals led 27-10 but had to survive a two-TD scare in the last quarter by the Oilers, who finished at 1-13, the worst record in the NFL.

"There is nobody too happy with the way we played," Curtis said. "We didn't have our mind on the game. We were looking ahead."

"It would have been awful easy to lay down but they went out there and played their hearts out," Oilers Coach Sid Gillman said.

"We were expecting this," Bengal Coach Paul Brown said. "It was a situation of the last game of the season, of a game that we were supposed to win easily and the other team was fired up."

Roger Staubach threw for 256 yards and three TDs as Dallas overwhelmed St. Louis. Two TD passes went to rookie Drew Pearson and the third to Jean Fugett.

"It was as rewarding a win as the first one (for the title) in 1966," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It was all the more rewarding since we lost out for the title last year."

"It's been a very bad time for me," Staubach said. "My mother was sick all season. Yet the way she accepted her fate some months ago picked me up. I won the game for her. Every time I played, I was trying to win for her."

Bill Kilmer threw four TD passes, three of them to Larry Brown, to lead Washington over Philadelphia.

"As far as I'm concerned we're in a first place tie with Dallas," said Washington Coach George Allen. "They get the division title because of the point thing but I look at it as if we're tied with them."

On Saturday, Pittsburgh's defense intercepted six passes and bottled up San Francisco's offense until the closing minutes to gain a playoff berth.

"We had some trouble getting untracked," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "The 49ers came after us in the first half but they seemed to lose their steam and desire in the second half. They're a pretty good team but they have problems. I'm just happy we caught them when they were down."

Rookie Lawrence McCutcheon set a club season rushing record by gaining close to 1,100 yards and John Hadl threw for two scores as Los Angeles beat Cleveland and Terry Brown's 63-yard return for a TD with an interception highlighted the Vikings' win over the Giants.

Jan Stenerud's four field goals carried Kansas City over San Diego and Eddie Ray ran for two TDs to power Atlanta over New Orelans. Lydell Mitchell ran for 142 yards to break Alan Ameche's singleseason club rushing record as the Colts upended New England and Jerry Tagge completed only three passes but two of them were for the first TDs of his pro career as Green Bay whipped Chicago.

Rams begin new season

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer.

LOS ANGELES — The Rams' season-long success story had a happy ending Sunday, for the regular season at least.

But as coach Chuck Knox said in the crowded post-game locker room, "Now a new season begins. It's a new season."

And so the most successful rookie coach in NFL history put a 12-2 season capped by a 30-17 victory over the Cleveland Browns behind him and began work on the next, and as usual, "biggest game," for his team.

This time it is the biggest. Knox's bag of surprises, better known as the Rams, now face the revenge-minded and Super Bowl-hungry Dallas Cowboys in Dallas Sunday in the opening round of playoff games.

Shoved into the background for the moment is the apparent cold war between the Rams and the Coliseum Commission over a new lease.

A San Fernando Valley paper last week reported that Rosenbloom was preparing to build a new stadium in the Valley near Universal City.

Coliseum general manager Jim Hardy is distressed by this latest rumor. "I've read the story," he admitted, "but I think we can make a deal with the Rams. We're negotiating with them and I still think we can reach agreement."

"The trouble is," he continued, "these stories and quotes attributed to one or both sides keep cropping up. We can't fight each other in the newspapers."

As for the central figure in the situation, Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom had only this comment about the rumored stadium in the Valley, "It's nothing I know anything about."

Rosenbloom, like his coach, wanted only to think about the next game and, perhaps, reflect on a previous contest.

On October 14th, the Rams stunned the Cowboys, 37-31, in the Coliseum.

"We'll start thinking about Dallas tonight," Knox said, "but our preparation will be the same as it has been all year. There'll be no changes from the usual routine we began on July 8 when we started training camp."

Knox did admit he was happy about the season behind him.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of our football team and the 12-2 season," he said. Our success has been due to a combination of things and I can't pinpoint any one key factor."

The Rams, as Knox conceded, looked a little ragged at times Sunday, but the crowd of 73,848 saw the Rams set seven individual or team records and narrowly miss two others.

Lawrence McCutcheon, still officially a rookie (because although he appeared in three games last year, he did not carry the ball at all) gained 83 yards in 11 carries to bring his season total to 1,097 yards breaking the record set by Dick Bass (1,090) in 1966.

Tourney of Champions begins

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Beginning tonight and lasting for four of the next five days, some of the best high school basketball action in California will be on display at Mt. San Antonio College.

The event is called the San Dimas Tournament of Champions, and it brings together eight of the top basketball teams in the state to be pitted against each other.

Included in the exclusive list of entrants is the defending CIF 4-A champion, the defending 3-A champion, the king of Northern California and the defending tournament champion.

Host San Dimas, which is trying to find a way to just watch the action instead of being involved in it, opens the tournament tonight at 7 p.m. against the defending 4-A champ and five-time CIF king Verbum Dei.

Then the only other valley entrant in the tourney, Ganesha, will take on last year's CIF 4-A runnerup in the playoffs, Pasadena, at 8:30 p.m.

"I've already conceded two losses, and I don't like to lose," stated San Dimas coach Bob Espinoza. "We're young and are still making mistakes.

"The caliber of this tournament is about the same as the CIF playoffs," he added.

Espinoza should know.

Last year he took his Saints to the semifinals of the 2-A playoffs, and in doing so was named the Pomona Valley Coach of the Year. But this year is the first year San Dimas is suffering from a loss to graduation. The players who played for Espinoza last season were at the school for four years, so they were well-seasoned and experienced. This year's team is much younger and has already posted a not-too-impressive 2-4 record.

This tournament could be considered a notch or two better than the CIF playoffs, simply because the teams involved are from all divisions instead of just one.

Four of the teams will be playing in 4-A competition this year — Verbum Dei, Morningside, Pasadena and Covina. Two will compete in the 3-A division — Ganesha and Murphy. And only San Dimas is from the 2-A level. St. Elizabeth, since competing up north instead of in the southern section, isn't listed in a level but would probably compete in 4-A or 3-A.

If Ganesha can put together a few games like the one the Giants played against Claremont in the Upland-Montclair Tournament two weeks ago, they should be considered one of the favorites in the tourney.

In that game Ganesha reeled off 40 points in one quarter and ended up with 62 points at the end of the first half. The Giants whipped Claremont by an 89-63 score. Also in that tourney, Ganesha tied the tournament record for most points in a game when it defeated Duarte in the opening, 99-61. The Giants went on to win the tournament, but haven't seen any action since.

"I've been pleased with the overall attitude of the team," noted Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson. "We're playing with cohesiveness now. I guess it's because the players have been playing together a lot."

The Giants will be paced by all-CIF (third team) center Clever Porter, who is averaging 24.6 points per game this year, and forward Broderick Hunter, who is dumping in an average of 17.2 points per outing.

Other Ganesha starters will probably be forward Gary George and guards Mike Hall and Earl Wilson.

Pasadena, under veteran coach George Terzian, is only returning starter in guard Michael Grey (6-1, 154). But he averaged 14 points per game in last year's tournament. The only other returning letterman is center-forward Glenn McGiven (6-4).

Riverside race has big purse

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — NASCAR's Winston Western 500, offering a purse of more than $100,000, will be held over Riverside's 2.62-mile road course Jan. 20.

The Western 500 is one of only two Grand National stock car races held on a road course. The other, the Tuborg 400, is held here in June.

Drivers expected to compete in the January race include four-time NASCAR champion Richard Petty and 1973 Driver of the Year David Pearson.

Hadl named Rams' MVP

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback John Hadl was honored as most valuable player of the Los Angeles Rams in awards presented Sunday by Ye Old Rams, a group of ex-players.

Other awards went to Joe Scibelli as the offensive lineman of the year; Jack Young blood as defensive lineman; Lawrence McCutcheon, outstanding offensive back; Harold Jackson, best wide receiver; Dave Elmendorf, defensive back; and Eddie McMillan, rookie of the year.

Lakers play well, but still lose to Celts

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — Lady Luck called a double foul on the Lakers Sunday night.

First they found out Jerry West will be out for probably a month because he reinjured or aggravated his pulled groin muscle against Cleveland and the only therapy is rest.

Then the Lakers went out and played three quarters of their best basketball in two weeks. Unfortunately, three quarters do not a basketball game make.

As a result, the defending Pacific Division champions lost a 115-110 game to the visiting Boston Celtics. It was the Lakers' eighth loss in 10 games and they have not beat the Celtics now in nearly two years (since Feb. 20, 1972).

Had the Lakers played well in the third quarter, they would have chalked up a win over their toughest rival. But something happens to Bill Sharman's club after the first half.

They apparently leave their game in the dressing room at intermission and don't regain it until the fourth quarter.

A perplexed Sharman, suffering from the flu, could only scratch his head.

"I don't know what happens to us in the third quarter," he said. "We're aware of the problem. We talk about it at halftime. But we still go back out there and play poorly."

Sharman gave the credit to Boston's quickness and speed. "They're quick moving and quick cutting and they sustain it," he said, "and we just can't seem to do that."

Kings begin road journey

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings, beaten at home by the Montreal Canadiens Saturday night, play three games this week, two of them on the road.

The Kings, who have 22 points on 9 wins and 4 ties against 16 losses, are at Detroit Tuesday night and St. Louis Wednesday night, returning to the Forum for a meeting next Saturday night with the Minnesota North Stars.

The Kings' 6-2 loss to the defending Stanley Cup champions gave Montreal a 15-game unbeaten streak against Los Angeles.

Sheldon Kannegiesser and Randy Rota accounted for the Kings' goals in the last period.

Rams finish season with 30-17 win

The 1973 Rams are the first even to win 12 games in a regular season.

As a team, they had 26 rushing plays Sunday to bring their season total to 640 breaking a league record set in 1934 by the Detroit Lions and equalled in 1949 by the Philadelphia Eagles.

They made 10 first downs rushing to bring their season total to 177 and break a record (170) set by the Miami Dolphins in 1970.

With 231 yards gained rushing, the Rams wound up with 2,925 for the season short by 36 yards of breaking the record of 2,960 set by the Dolphins last year.

Their 16 first downs gave them 294 for the season, shy by three of the 297 made by Dallas in 1968 and equaled by Oakland last year.

McCutcheon's words belied his outward calm. "This is really an exciting feeling," he said. "It's hard to explain how I feel. But I've had fine blocking by the line and also by Jimmy Bertelsen."

As for Dallas, McCutcheon said, "They're a hard team to run against. I know they'll be tough."

McCutcheon revealed he came to training camp determined to succeed.

"I came to camp with the idea I could be a number one starting back," he remarked.

While McCutcheon was fielding questions about his new success, quarterback John Hadl was busy refuting a old familiar refrain.

The Rams' signal caller had completed six of 14 passes for 92 yards and two touchdowns (to tight end Bob Klein and wide receiver Harold Jackson). He also had had an interception nullified by a Cleveland penalty.

"Your passing has been inconsistent the last six games," charged a writer from one of Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers.

Hadl, whose passing Sunday was not especially sharp, was incensed.

"That's a bunch of bleep," he bleeped. "I've been fighting statistics for eight years. We've won 12 games and lost only two this year and have just completed our second string of six straight. We're in the playoffs. That's all I care about."

It was the second most exciting thing that had happened. The other was the running of Cleveland rookie Greg Pruitt who is proving that a 5-10, 190 pound running back can find happiness in the NFL.

Sports news in brief

By United Press International

LEE KUNZMAN, the driver injured last Tuesday at Ontario Motor Speedway while conducting tire tests, is listed in fair condition today at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

WALLACE "WALLY" BUTTS, the little round man who took Georgia football to the heights and then saw his 22-year coaching career end in controversy, died today in Athens, Ga. of a heart attack. He was 68.

THE THREE-DAY BREAK from practice enjoyed by Ohio State — Saturday, Sunday and today — shouldn't hurt the Buckeyes, coach Woody Hayes said. He will resume drills Tuesday in Columbus.

JOE NAMATH may have played his last game at quarterback for the New York Jets — but the only man who might know for sure is not saying. "I just don't know," Namath says.

FIVE PLAYERS crashed the once magic 1,000-yard rushing barrier in the National Football League this season, bringing the total of 1,000-yard rushing seasons over the years to 63. The five were O.J. Simpson of Buffalo, John Brockington of Green Bay, Calvin Hill of Dallas, Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles and Larry Csonka of Miami.

ADOLPH RUPP, the famous Kentucky basketball coach, continued to improve Sunday night following his hospitalization for a perforated ulcer. Rupp, 72, is expected to remain in an Orlando, Fla. hospital for another seven to 10 days before returning home to Kentucky.

THE PITTSBURGH STEELERS are going to Palm Springs to get ready for Saturday's playoff game against the Oakland Raiders. Pittsburgh is staying in California after defeating the San Francisco 49ers, 37-14, Saturday.

Espinoza admits his San Dimas Saints are rebuilding after losing two greats to graduation (Jeff Nelson and Wayne Moses). Returning starter Jim Johnson (5-10, 165) will be joined by 5-9 junior Bobby Childress, considered one of the best and quickest guards in the valley, Greg McCrary (6-4, 190), a superb outside shooter with capabilities to handle the Saints' inside game, Matt Draayom (6-6), who rebounds well, drives the basket with the best, and can hook, and Steve Brahs, who led the JV team in scoring last year.

McCrary is the leading scorer for the Saints so far this year with a 15.8 average.

Verdum Dei, under new head coach John Sneed, has four returning lettermen. David Greenwood (6-10, 210) rebounds very well and gets the ball released. He can run the fast break too.

Roy Hamilton (6-1, 165) plays both ends of the floor, starts at the point, a great floor leader, makes few mistakes, and will definitely be a major college guard.

Mike Lewis (6-0, 154) is the other starting guard and is starting his third varsity season. His defensively ability is complimentary to his fine ball handling.

Reggie Bowie (6-3, 172) was partially responsible for part of the Eagles' success last year. He was able to come off of the bench and handle the forward position very well.

The first round of the tournament will be completed Tuesday night when Murphy battles Morningside at 7 p.m. and Covina takes on St. Elizabeth of Oakland at 8:30 p.m.

Other tournaments will be taking place this week, involving valley schools.

Rowland will be competing in the Troy Tournament and Garey will travel to Las Vegas to battle for the Western Las Vegas Tournament championship.

Both of those will begin action Thursday, with Garey opening against Reno in the first round.

The Laguna Beach Tourney will have two valley schools competing in it. Ontario will begin play Tuesday night at 8 p.m. against Saddleback. Walnut will wait until Wednesday, and then will face Canyon at 5 p.m.

Damien will also enter a tournament this week, the Pius X Tourney, and will open against Bosco Tech Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

L.A. plays well

Lakers decisioned by Celts

There were also these disquieting thoughts.

"For some reason, I don't know why, we just aren't a good rebounding club," he continued, "and we have too many people who aren't used to the running game."

The first quarter ended in a 30-30 tie. At the half the Lakers held a four-point lead, 60-56. They ran with the runningest club in the NBA and outshot them (45.3 per cent to 34.6 per cent).

Halftime statistics showed the Lakers with just eight turnovers to Boston's 10. And the defense was so good the Celtics' made only eight of 31 shots in the second quarter.

Then came the intermission and maybe the real Laker team stayed in the dressing room. The bunch that came out wearing Los Angeles uniforms stood around looking at each other most of the time (combing their hair as Chick Hearn would say).

They hit on only four of 22 shots (18.2 per cent), were outrebounded 13-9, and were outscored 34-19. The period ended with the Celts in front, 90-79.

Gail Goodrich, who wound up as the team's leading scorer with 24 points, did not score a field goal in the whole second half until there were only 14 seconds left in the game!

The littlest Laker missed on 11 straight shots including his last two in the first half. Worse, his defense also suffered a short circuit and he was eaten alive by quick passes to a wide open Jo Jo White.

Dave Cowens, last year's MVP in the NBA, ripped the Lakers for 35 points and hauled down 21 rebounds. John Havlicek added 29 points and both he and Cowends had eight assists apiece.

Now, just when Bill Bridges returned to the lineup after missing 17 games, the Lakers lose West, their best defensive player and number two scorer.

The only thing more depressing is the memory that last year at this time the Lakers were 25-5.

Chaffey set for 2 games in Hawaii

HILO, HAWAII — Coach Barney Newlee's Chaffey College basketball team opens a two-game set with Hilo College here tonight, looking for its sixth and seventh victories of the season.

The Panthers are 5-3 going into tonight's contest. Chaffey was decisioned in the quarterfinals of its own Chaffey Invitational Thursday night by El Camino, 76-66.

Veterans Bob Kovach, an All-State forward, and guard Pierre Rankin, are averaging about 20 points a game for the Panthers.

Following the two games with Hilo, Chaffey returns to California for the San Joaquin Delta Tournament at Stockton, Dec. 27-29.

U. S. SKI TEAM racers Bill Koch and Martha Rockwell won the cross-country ski races of the Samsonite Nordic Series at Snowmass Saturday.

UCLA a nightmare for N.C. State

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The dream game between the nation's two top college basketball powers turned into a nightmare for North Carolina State.

The high-riding Wolfpack waited for more than a year to play UCLA's reigning National Collegiate Athletic Association champions, then became just another victim of the Bruins and big Bill Walton, 84-66.

"Their team just played better than our team," North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan said. "I hope we're better than this."

UCLA handily won its 79th straight game, an amazing streak dating back to 1971. The Bruins also brought an abrupt end to North Carolina State's 29-game win streak, which included an undefeated season last year when the Wolfpack was ineligible for post-season tournament play.

The game was even for about three quarters. For North Carolina State, 6-foot-4 David Thompson was leaping above the basket and rebounding and scoring. Little Monte Towe was dribbling and moving fast. For UCLA, Keith Wilkes was hitting from outside and going inside for rebounds. Dave Meyers was clearing the lane and grabbing loose basketballs.

The duel between the two centers, UCLA's 6-foot-11 Walton and N.C. State's 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson, was short-circulated by early fouls. Walton drew two in the first two minutes of the game and left with four when the game was eight minutes old. Burleson left about three minutes later with three personals.

Burleson started the second half against UCLA center Ralph Drollinger with Walton still on the bench. UCLA Coach Johnny Wooden said, "I knew that I could always bring him back in."

Wooden and Walton sat side-by-side until 9:49 remained in the game. Then the red-haired senior lumbered onto the court. The Bruins led by only two points and Steve Nuce quickly hit a 15-foot jump shot to tie the game for the Wolfpack.

Walton went to work. He laid the ball through the hoop for a two-point UCLA lead. He raced to the other end and grabbed a rebound. Tommy Curtis hit a jump shot, converted a free throw, Wilkes hit two straight baskets, Curtis scored again, then Walton, and the Bruins outscored N. C. State 17-2 over a four-minute period to show once again, this time to a national television audience, why they are No. 1.

North Carolina State finished last season with a No. 2 ranking behind UCLA, but the Wolfpack was not able to meet the Bruins in the NCAA tournament because they were on probation for recruiting violations. The N.C. State players watched from afar as the Bruins won their seventh straight national title.

Players of both teams had been pointing toward Saturday's early-season showdown at the St. Louis Arena since last spring. For the Wolfpack it was a chance to make history by breaking the longest winning streak ever in college basketball. For the Bruins, it was the opportunity to quiet skeptics who had been saying: "Well, you won the NCAA, but North Carolina State couldn't play."

So Saturday the Bruins proved once again to be the best.

"It was a great ball game," said Wooden, college basketball's winningest coach. "It was great for basketball. It would be nice if we could have something like it every year.

Poly's Williams breaks CCAA rebounding mark

POMONA —Lee Roy Williams not only broke Cal Poly's record for rebounds with 33 in Saturday night's 90-78 win over Wheaton (Ill.), he also established a California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) standard.

A check of the CCAA records shows Williams establishing a record, surpassing the previous mark of 32 set by Frank Johnson of Cal State Los Angeles against UC Riverside in 1965.

The 6-foot-9 Williams, who has led Poly in rebounding every game, increased his season average to 15.6 per game.

But Williams will have his hands full this week when Poly visits Long Beach State Wednesday night, hosts North Dakota State Friday night and travels to Nevada, Las Vegas Saturday night.

Jaynes featured in Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Kansas quarterback David Jaynes is expected to light the fireworks against underdog North Carolina State in tonight's nationally-televised Liberty Bond before a near-capacity crowd of 50,000.

Kansas (7-3-1) is a slight favorite on the strength of All American Jaynes' passing arm. North Carolina State, which wound up with an 8-3 record and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, will rely on a strong running game and a tough pass defense. Game time is 8:00 CST.

Jaynes is a ready-made pro passer at 6-2 and 212-pounds and is expected to go in the first round of the draft when he graduates this year. He threw for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Kansas coach Don Fambrough and North Carolina State's Lou Holtz both agree that the outcome will swing heavily on how well Jaynes' throws the football.

State, which will be trying to atone for an 84-66 drubbing of its basketball team at the hands of UCLA Saturday, will use Willie Burden and three other running backs tabbed "the four stallions" for ball control against the big Kansas defense. The others are Charley Young, Stan Fritts and Ronald Hooks.

Burden ran for 1,014 yards and the ACC rushing title this year.

Kansas tied for second in the rugged Big Eight Conference and upset Missouri, 14-13, in the closing game. The Jayhawks played a tougher schedule than N.C. State although the Wolfpack almost came out on top against unbeaten Penn State before

It will be the fifth bowl appearance for N.C. State and the Wolfpack's third Liberty trip. State defeated Georgia, 14-7, here in 1967 and lost to Mississippi State, 16-12, in 1963.

Kansas is 1-2 in bowl competition and it will be the first Liberty visit for the Jayhawks.

Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Dramesi will be honored in the Liberty's tradition of patriotic halftime shows. The New Jersey native spent five years in a North Vietnam POW camp.

Dramesi is the fellow who made a crude American flag from scraps of bedding, underwear and towel thread while in captivity. Thousands of small American flags will be waved by the crowd in a salute to the POWs released this year.

"A year ago," Dramesi said, "I guess I was looking forward to Christmas because we got a half-decent meal on two holidays. We always looked forward to Christmas and the TET holiday. We really looked forward to the meal."

Tennessee wants action

By United Press International

UCLA beat North Carolina State on Saturday, but the really BIG news in college basketball was made at Knoxville, Tenn.

For UCLA, you see, always wins. What happened at Knoxville doesn't happen very often, and it was so unusual that even Dr. Edward J. Boling, the president of the University of Tennessee, got himself involved.

In fact, Boling became the central character in a unique post-game happening when he asked Tennessee Coach Ray Mears to put his players through an intra-squad scrimmage immediately after they had finished winning the Volunteer Classic tournament.

The reason Boling felt the scrimmage was necessary was because of the 11,700 fans in the stands. He thought they deserved some action for their money, and they got none during the title game in which Tennessee defeated Temple 11-6.

11-6--That's correct.

Temple, apparently trying to disprove the theory that the idea of the game is to score, held the ball for 11 ½ minutes in the first half and 14 minutes more in the second half in a slowdown attempt that failed to produce a victory but did result in one of the lowest-scoring basketball games ever played.

Ray Mears, the Volunteers coach, said the Temple stall "stressed once again the need of a 30-second clock in college basketball," and insisted "there was nothing we could do about it," but losing Coach Don Casey couldn't have disagreed more.

"We felt we couldn't let them set the tempo of the game," Casey said. "It was as much their responsibility to counter us as for us to counter them. They didn't even try to stop us from holding the ball."

Casey also said he wasn't too pleased with the officiating setup since three of the four officials at the tournament were from Nashville and he made it clear he didn't like the way they were calling fouls.

Someone suggested to the first-year Temple coach that his team's stall didn't do much to help college basketball in general or the Tennessee tournament in particular, and he tartly pointed out, "It's their classic, not mine."

The Owls went into the stall trailing 7-5 after 7 ½ minutes of the first half. They held the ball almost the rest of the half but couldn't score when Kevin Washington dribbled out of bounds with 15 seconds left in the half, and scored only one point in the second half.

Indiana (No. 3) whipped Ball State 87-62, North Carolina (4) had no trouble with East Tennessee State 81-63, Marquette (6) survived a mini-stall by Minnesota to win 68-50, Providence (8) got 52 points from Marvin Barnes to beat Austin Peay 94-92 (Fly Williams scored 40 for Austin Peay), Memphis State (9) routed East Texas State 99-76 and Louisville (10) beat Florida State 90-78. Maryland (5) and Notre Dame (7) were idle.

Bridge

Distribution's funny bounce

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Sports writers point out that footballs take funny bounces. As bridge writers we might point out that cards take funny ways to distribute themselves. For that reason bridge will never be an exact science."

Jim: "International match-point team competition shows this. Even the greatest players in the world are likely to find themselves flying blind in a fog with no idea as to what they should do."

Oswald: "Here is a hand from a recent team game. The bidding is that at table one. East opened one club because his 19-point hand was too big for a notrump. South preempted with four diamonds. West who was allergic to being shut out tried five clubs. East thought a while and made a brilliant pass and South completed the auction by also passing."

Jim: "It was the right decision based on the principle that a man who preempts should bid just that once."

Oswald: "It also was the right decision from the result standpoint. The ace of diamonds; a diamond ruff and the ace of spades gave the defense the first three tricks and a 100 point profit. The bidding started out the same at the other table but South made the mistake of continuing to five diamonds. West doubled (chiefly from fright) and South had to go down two tricks."

Standard has top bid for Alaska oil

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) The Standard Oil Company of California has presented the highest bid for a parcel of offshore oil property in the Homer Spit area of Alaska.

Standard bid $7,572,190 for the 20-year lease. The state collects royalty on any oil pumped from offshore holdings, it was announced. —

Chuck Herbert, state commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources, said all major oil companies participated in the bidding.

He said the state expected only $5 million in total bids. Preliminary figures showed the total came to more than $24 million.

"There seems to be a pretty interesting structure which runs offshore down there," Herbert said, referring to the lay of the land where the tracts were offered.

Locust not a locust

The 17-year locust is not a locust at all but a cicada. It spends 17 years tunneling underground before it emerges as an adult insect, to starve to death in less than a month because it is unable to feed due to its mouth structure.

Lighting up is no light matter

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

In these days of Ms Lib, it is harder than ever to light a woman's cigarette. It was never easy. Since the days of Sir Walter Raleigh men have been trying, usually unsuccessfully, to fire up the female's stogie, and the job isn't getting any simpler.

I have it on fairly reliable authority that women like to have you perform this little service, not because they can't do it with more ease and alacrity themselves, but because it shows that someone is "paying attention," as one of them puts it.

If they like to have you light their cigarette, why do they make it so hard for you?

At any party you're certain to encounter the female quick-draw artist, the gal who can open her purse, pop a cigarette into her mouth, and fire it up while you're still groping for your lighter.

Not long ago I ran into the fastest cigarette in the West, a long-stemmed beauty who could draw and light before you could say "like a cigarette should." After muffing several tries at stoking up her filter tip, I resolved to catch her next time around. I stood at her elbow, my hand in my pocket enclosing my lighter. I watched her like a house detective.

The moment came. She opened her handbag, my lighter flew out and snapped on—nearly setting fire to the lipstick with which she was then dabbing her lips. Win a few, lose a lot.

Romantically inclined chaps tell me that a significant overture in the art of making out is to gaze deeply into the young person's eyes while you light her cigarette, a look that suggests there is more to life than a flip-top box.

But it's not that easy—or it wasn't when I was a young scamp given to deep gazes. If you look into her eyes, you're liable to light her corsage. If she looks into your eyes, cigarette and lighter never meet.

Females hate, I am snarlingly informed, the man who holds the light down low, making the lightee crouch for the flame. Some parlor gallants will do this, almost as though on purpose, usually when the vis-a-vis is wearing an interesting decolletage. I can't think what they see in the stunt.

The art of lighting a lady's cigarette must be studied and practiced. The man who can whip out a lighter in a flash and have a tiny, golden flame dancing under her nose while she is still fumbling for her weeds, is a joy to women and a pain in the neck to the other men.

Given the opportunity to flourish or flop, I invariably blow the job. The gal beats me to the light. If I get my lighter out, it won't light, and I stand there snapping furiously while some other man leans over and accomplishes the mission.

If the infernal machine lights, I am so astonished I usually burn my hand and singe milady's eyebrows.

One the whole, I have found it more effective to forget the project entirely and adopt the pose of the rugged Marlborough man who has no time for females.

A horse never asks you to light his cigarette.

Farms assured of enough fuel to take care of crops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Simon, the nation's energy chief, reassured farmers today they need have no worry that they will get all the gasoline, propane and fuel oil they need to harvest or process their crops.

"If the farmers, dairymen, livestock raisers and comercial fishermen are going to provide the increased production they have been asked to produce next year, they must get the fuel they need to do the job," Simon said.

While fuel allocations already announced contain provisions that agriculture would get priority treatment, Simon issued the new assurance in a prepared speech to an agricultural outlook conference sponsored by the Agriculture Department.

On another subject, Simon said it would be "pure speculation" to predict how high the cost of gasoline will go in this country. There have been some forecasts that it will reach $1 or more a gallon in a few months.

Simon said in an interview this morning on the NBC-TV Today Show that it was impossible at this time to make a forecast with any degree of accuracy because of such variables as crude oil prices and consumer demand.

"To speculate, and it would be pure speculation, on where the market price is going to be for gasoline next year is difficult because there are just too many things that could happen between now and then," Simon said.

On farm needs, Simon said: "There is no question that farmers will have to contribute to energy conservation, just like other sectors of the economy. However, I believe that 'farm needs' are really national needs."

Simon said he would decide this week whether to recommend to President Nixon that gasoline rationing be instituted.

Other world-wide energy developments:

—The British Cabinet today approved special emergency budget measures aimed at combatting serious energy and labor problems. Government sources said the additional belt-tightening moves would mean higher taxes, pay cuts, part time working and mounting unemployment.

—Japan, also suffering economic pains due to the oil shortage, pondered whether to buy oil from Libya at the risk of offending Washington and large international oil companies. Yasuhiro Nakasone, minister of International Trade and Industry, told the Japanese parliament, the Diet, "I want every drop of oil our country can get."

—Simon said pharmaceutical houses would get adequate fuel to continue production of essential drugs and to carry out priority research. The statement was issued this morning just before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Health subcommittee opened hearings on effects of the energy crisis on the drug industry.

—The National Safety Council said that because of gasoline conservation measures and lowered speed limits, its original estimate of the number of persons who will die from traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday period had been lowered by 50 to an estimate of 550 to 650 persons.

—In Philadelphia, consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the energy crisis was "the most phony crisis ever inflicted upon a modern society," while Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, who told a group of plastic processors in Cambridge, Ohio that the energy crunch "is a lot of baloney contrived to drive up prices."

HIJACKERS BOMB JET, KILL 21

Till emptied after clerk pistol-whipped

POMONA — A liquor store clerk was cracked over the head by one of two robbers Saturday night after being forced to kneel at gunpoint and an hour later police booked a suspect in the holdup.

The victim, Michael R. Dannan, 27, Covina, was treated for a head injury at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He later was released.

Dannan was working in the Cask and Keg Liquors at 2385 N. Garey Ave. when the holdup men entered about 8:45 p.m. One drew a pistol from his waistband and ordered Dannan to kneel. Afer taking cash from the register one robber slugged Dannan from behind, apparently with a .38-caliber revolver. Dannan fell to the floor and lay there until the men fled.

The victim's father, who owns the liquor store, was working in the rear of the building while the robbery was going on, but didn't know about it until it was over.

The gunman was described as a Negro in his late teens, about 5 feet 8 weighing 160 pounds. He wore a blue knit cap, black jacket and was described as thin. The second man was of similar description and wore dark clothing.

Police later arrested Anthony Lamar Yarbrough, 20, 228 Roberts St. They said he matched the description of one robber and was in a car similar to one they used.

RUNWAY AGONY

Ignoring a passenger bleeding from a terrorist's bullet on the runway, two Arab guerrillas march a Lufthansa pilot, pistol at his head, to the cockpit of an escape plane. Arabs shot another passenger to death, and blew up a partially-filled Pan Am jet in Rome airport attack today.

Flames, gunfire claim victims in Rome battle

ROME (UPI) — In one of their bloodiest attacks, Arab guerrillas shot up a departure lounge at Leonardo da Vinci airport today, bombed a Pan American jet, burning to death many of its passengers, then hijacked a West German jetliner to Athens.

Pan American World Airways said at least 21 persons were killed in the attack and a shootout at Leonardo da Vinci International airport. Most of the victims burned to death in the grenade assault that destroyed the Pan Am 707 jetliner.

One of the dead was an unidentified American who got caught in a crossfire during a shootout on the runway, airport officials said.

Pan Am officials said 57 passengers and nine crew members were aboard the plane at the time of the attack and "a lot" of those on board were Americans. The officials said four Moroccan ministers of state were also aboard the plane at the time of the attack. Their fate was not certain.

Coming almost on the eve of new Geneva talks for peace between the Arabs and Israelis in the Middle East, the attack was one of the worst since Arab guerrilla action began. Twenty-six persons were killed in the assault on Lod airport in Tel Aviv on May 30, 1972, and 17 persons killed in the Sept. 5, 1972 attack on the Israeli quarters in Olympic village in Munich.

The hijacked twin-engine Lufthansa Boeing 737 landed at Athens international airport at 5:05 p.m. (10:05 a.m. EST) and parked about three-quarters of a mile from the terminal.

The Arabs demanded the Greek government free two guerrillas jailed for an attack on Athens airport last August, airport sources said. Control tower officials said the guerrillas also asked for ambulances to remove wounded from the plane.

Police armed with submachine guns surrounded the airport. West German Ambassador Dirk Onken met with Greek security officers in the terminal.

Control tower sources said the guerrillas gave the Greek government 90 minutes deadline to turn over the prisoners, arrested for a pistol and hand grenade attack Aug. 5 which killed four persons.

The government said it needed two hours to discuss the demands. The guerrillas said a hostage would be shot to death and thrown out of the aircraft, if the demand was not met.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the flight did not originate in New York as scheduled but rather in Rome. Because bad weather delayed the departure of flight 110 from New York to Rome, the airline designated another flight 110— the one leaving Rome for Beirut and Tehran.

The original flight number 110 arrived in Rome from New York as the other plane was blown up. It landed at Rome's Ciampino Airport.

A Lufthansa spokesman said there were no passengers aboard the hijacked plane. The hostages included the plane crew and several airport employes.

The sequence that led to the hijacking began when security guards caught several Arabs trying to take guns concealed in their luggage aboard a departiing plane.

The Arabs began shooting wildly inside the departure lounge and grabbed several hostages. Airport officials said at least six of the hostages were members of the public security force at the airport.

One of the dead was shot in the back as he was walking down the stairs from the Lufthansa plane which the guerrillas comandeered, airport officials said.

One wounded passenger lay in his own blood only a few feet away.

Israel okays parley

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today Israel has agreed to attend the opening of the Middle East peace conference in Geneva and that the first stage of the talks will deal with the disengagement of forces on the Suez front.

"There is full agreement about the procedures of the opening of the conference," Kissinger told newsmen at Lod International Airport after 10 hours of talks with the Israeli leaders over the past day and a half.

Smouldering trash blamed

Fire rips La Madeleine restaurant

CHINO — A fire, apparently starting in a trash can, charred and gutted the main bar in the La Madeleine French Cuisine Restaurant at 5275 D St. Sunday morning.

Firemen said a Chino police unit in the area of the French restaurant across from the central fire station reported that smoke was pouring out from under the rear door of the main bar about 3:24 a.m. When firemen arrived a minute later the main bar was totally engulfed in flames.

Four Chino Fire Department engine companies and one Montclair Fire Department company had the blaze under control within 20 minutes. Inside the main bar, dozens of upholstered chairs, tables, carpeting, liquor bottles, and glasses lay charred and cracked from the intense heat and flames. Firemen were able to contain the blaze before it spread to the large banquet room, kitchen and dining areas of the restaurant.

Fire inspectors were at the scene this morning waiting to make a more thorough investigation of the blaze and attempt to determine the amount of loss. Firemen said they believe that a smouldering cigarette dumped with other trash inside a trash can was placed underneath the bar about 2 a.m. The trash smouldered for about an hour, finally starting the blaze.

The main bar was destroyed and smoke damage was reported throughout the building. Firemen said outside of some smoke damage the kitchen was not touched by the fire. The structure of the building was damaged only slightly, firemen said.

Fire officials estimated that less than 200 gallons of water were used to stop the fire. Thirteen firemen were called to the scene.

San Bernardino County vote Tuesday

By PAUL HILL
P-B staff Writer

One thing each of the four candidates in Tuesday's 20th Senate District special election agree on is that the heavier the voting the better his own chance of success.

For the two Democratic candidates in the contest, such theorizing may be all too painfully true. Traditionally, voting is light in special elections, and of those who cast ballots Republicans usually do so in greater numbers.

Predictions by the San Bernardino County registrar of voters office are for a 40 per cent turnout of the eligible voters in the district, but some observers see this as an overly optimistic figure. Other forecasts range from 25 per cent to 35 per cent, and are more in line with original predictions at the time Gov. Ronald Reagan called for the special election over five weeks ago to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of William E. Coombs.

Coombs resigned to take a post with the Treasury Department, a move most observers. It was generally well-known that Coombs, for various reasons, wanted to give up his place in the state legislature.

Seeking to take his place are two Democrats — County Supervisor Ruben Ayala of Chino and Rialto City Councilman Ralph Carter — and two Republicans — Assemblyman Jerry Lewis (73rd District) and Big Bear businessman Robert J. Allenthorp.

Should any one of the candidates fail to get more than 50 per cent of the total vote, a Jan. 15 runoff will be held between the top vote-getters of each party.

A GOP victory would again even up things in the Senate, 20 Republicans and 20 Democrats. However, should either Ayala or Carter win, Democrats would have control of both houses in the Legislature.

Lewis and Ayala are generally looked upon as the leading contenders, but it is no small consolation to Ayala and his supporters that Carter could which did not come as a surprise to hurt his chances much more than Allenthorp could Lewis'.

The GOP is firmly behind Lewis, while Democrats as a whole have not lined up behind one candidate. An example is the County Democratic Central Committee's refusal to endorse either Ayala or Carter, preferring to remain neutral as in the case of primary elections.

Ayala has received individual endorsements from a number of the state's leading Democrats (among them Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr. and U.S. Sen. John Tunney), but the endorsements are the extent of their support, Ayala says. Like Carter, Ayala says his campaign contributions have principally came from small individual donations from "the people."

Lewis' campaign chest is well-stocked, totaling more than $60,000. He says more than 1,500 individuals have contributed to his campaign.

Integrity has been the main issue in the candidates' campaigns, which is perhaps not hard to understand in this year of the Watergate scandals.

The 20th Senate District is made up of all of San Bernardino County with the exception of the Redlands, Yucaipa and Loma Linda areas. In terms of voter registration, Democrats have an edge (55 per cent) but that can be misleading. Coombs is a Republican, and he represented the area the past seven years.

Somewhat ironic is the fact that the eventual winner will represent the entire district for only a year. He will face re-election next year in a newly reapportioned district (the 32nd), which will consist of the western half of the county and the city of Pomona in Los Angeles County

The registrar of voters office is basing its 40 per cent prediction on the "higher than normal" return of absentee ballots. A spokesman said the "biggest majority" of the 1,800 absentee ballots sent out had been returned by last Friday.

Snow and sleet cripple sections of East Coast

By United Press International

Snow, sleet and freezing rain hit the East Coast from Virginia to Maine today, dumping a near-paralyzing half foot of snow on Washington, D.C. and making conditions so slippery in New York City the opening of the New York and American Stock Exchanges was delayed.

More winter was on the way.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect from the lower Great Lakes to the central Appalachians and east to the Atlantic seaboard. Up to 20 inches of snow was forecast for the Pocono Mountains of eastern Pennsylvania.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported from New England as far south as northern Georgia. A belt of freezing rain and sleet 150 miles wide iced roads and contributed to a series of storm-connected traffic deaths.

At least four were dead, two in Virginia and one each in Rhode Island and Massachusetts in motor accidents.

In the nation's capital, six inches of snow closed all schools, stopped flights at National Airport and allowed government workers an extra two hours to get to work.

"We're kind of excited," a Washington highway spokesman said. "This is the first time in four years we've had snowplows out."

Police from New Hampshire to New York and south to Virginia reported large numbers of "fender bender" accidents.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain blitzed the New York metropolitan area. New York City was forced to cancel for a second time a plan to transform Fifth Avenue into a pedestrian mall, and the city's Sunday half-fare mass transit plan got off to a slow start as subfreezing temperatures scared off subway and bus riders from an inexpensive ride.

Fair weather prevailed from the western Great Lakes to Texas and through the southcentral Rockies.

Maryland woman swamped with letters backing Nixon

OLNEY, Md. (UPI) — Anyone wishing to express support for President Nixon may eat fried chicken or a pancake supper, march with placards or sign petitions. Now there's a new alternative.

She is Mrs. Dolores Smith Olney, and for the past three months her work of dedication has been to "stack and stack" pro-Nixon letters she gets as testimony for the news media and other nations that the United States backs its chief executive.

So far, she said she has "stacked" over 200 such letters, most of them from retired or military people.

The 40-year-old Maryland housewife conducts her campaign from a card table in her living room, sometimes working into early morning.

"In this time of crisis, our President, the man we elected, needs our full support to carry out the urgent tasks before him...I firmly believe this," she said.

She has followed the Senate Watergate hearings, kept track of opinion polls, read the Constitution in full for the first time, written and phoned congressmen and made several frustrating attempts to interest Washington newspapers, radio and television stations.

Reading about the outpouring of telegrams that followed the dismissal of special prosecutor Archibald Cox, she did some figuring.

"Even if every one of the 56,000 messages were critical, my almanac says 45 million voted for him in 1972," she said. "There really is a silent majority out there ..."

Not long ago Mrs. Smith was a silent American herself and she doesn't find easy to explain the transformation.

One element, she said, was open-heart surgery this past year on one of her four-year old twin daughters, Stacy, which she described as a maturing period.

She has drafted an information which says "the office of the President is regarded with great respect by countries around the world" and requests that "each concerned citizen write a letter to the President pledging him the support he needs to build a better America."

"I merely want to provide the silent majority out there with an opinion poll of its own...I want all Americans to evaluate the issue fairly," Mrs. Smith said.

She finances her campaign from household funds. "The last thing I want, with all that's going on now, is financial contributions," she said, waving a dollar bill and letter from a retired lieutenant colonel.

Renewed war in S. Vietnam feared as Hanoi buildup nears peak

By WARREN L. NELSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Analysts disagree on whether Hanoi plans a full scale offensive in South Vietnam but are virtually unanimous that Communist forces in the south are once again powerful enough "to spill a lot of blood."

One official said, "If you were the boss of North Vietnam and asked General Giap (Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap), 'can you go now?' he'd say 'yes.'"

That buildup—all in violation of the January cease-fire which permitted only one-for-one replacements of military equipment is one reason secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet next week in Paris with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The Pentagon has said officially that it doesn't expect a countrywide Communist offensive soon. But many analysts around the Pentagon, State Department and CIA do indeed suspect Hanoi will unleash another major attack in a matter of months or even weeks;

Those analysts who foresee no big attacks say Hanoi has not mobilized its reserves or sent extra men south ready to replace the casualties that result from any big offensive. They note that one of the tipoffs to the 1972 Easter offensive was that replacements started down the Ho Chi Minh Trail early.

But others who foresee a new outbreak say Hanoi no longer needs to start feeding replacement troops into the trail four months in advance of need. The trail, they say, has been improved with gravel and corrugated steel to speed travel and with culverts to funnel rain water away from the road. These analysts say Hanoi would not need to start replacements south until the eve of a big push.

"They've had one hell of a lot of blood spilled and there's going to be some more," one source said.

While there are differing views of Hanoi's intentions, there is strong agreement on her capabilities:

—There are now 600 to 700 Communist tanks inside South Vietnam compared to 400 at the beginning of the 1972 offensive and 100 at the cease-fire last January.

—About 100,000 men have been infiltrated into South Vietnam since the cease-fire giving Hanoi an army of approximately 250,000.

—North Vietnam has built an impressive anti-aircraft defense network inside South Vietnam— which some officers say is evidence of the communist respect for Saigon's Air Force. Since the cease-fire Hanoi has doubled the number of air defense regiments from 12 to 23 with 1,000 weapons concentrated in the Quang Tri area that North Vietnam bit off in the last offensive; it has installed surface-to-air missiles around the airstrip at Khe Sanh, although these are SAM2s, not the more sophicated SAM3s and SAM6s that the Egyptians used in the Yom Kippur war.

—Hanoi has built about 200 miles of all-weather, gravel roads inside South Vietnam.

—An oil pipeline now can carry fuel all the way from China to northern Cambodia, and numerous spur lines take fuel from the main line down Laos into the troop areas inside South Vietnam.

Different sources in different interviews gave slightly different figures because the estimating process is far from precise. One source commented, "The North Vietnamese don't pass their stuff through a turnstile so we can count it."

The cease-fire agreement requires that the International Commission of Control and Supervision monitor the supply of one for one replacements. But not one single item has been checked by the four-power ICCS in the ten months since the cease-fire, officials said.

The level of local fighting has increased substantially in the past few weeks. there is general agreement the fighting in the far south is designed to gather rice for the troops and that the battles along the Cambodian border are for the purpose of controlling routes for the communists' expanding road network.

Some feel Hanoi also wants to link the pockets she controls now so she can organize something that looks like a real nation instead of a series of spots.

Boston Tea Party, 1973: Nixon tarred, feathered

BOSTON (UPI) — President Nixon was tarred and feathered in effigy Sunday as 20,000 persons watched the re-enactment of the Boston Tea Party 200 years after the historic event.

Demonstrators threw oil barrels into Boston harbor from the deck of a reproduction of an 18th century sailing vessel in what they termed the "Boston Oil Party." The re-enactment of the tea party was the opening event of the nation's celebration of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution.

The crowd gathered in snow that turned to cold rain as a large papier-mache effigy of the President was rowed about in a small boat.

A voice from a loudspeaker asked:

"How may people think he should be taken to the boat and hung?"

There was an enormous cheer.

"Is anybody opposed?" the loudspeaker asked.

There was silence.

The official Boston Bicentennial Committee to mark the 200th anniversary of the day Americans pitched packages of tea off a British ship into Boston Harbor to protest policies of Britain's King George III.

But the official reenactment was overshadowed by the socalled "Oil Party" staged by the "People's Bicentennial Commission" to demand the impeachment of Nixon and protest the policies of the major oil companies in dealing with the energy crisis.

Members of various veterans' groups, dressed in colonial costume, dropped wooden crates over the side of the Beaver II, a replica of one of the ships boarded in the original Tea Party 200 years ago. Minutes later, they cheered as the demonstrators, also dressed in eighteenth century garb, boarded the brig from several small boats, and hoisted banners demanding Nixon's impeachment into the rigging of the ship.

An effigy of the president was tarred and feathered in the custom of punishing criminals in the 1700s and passed through the cheering crowd.

Plans to hold the anti-Nixon demonstration has been announced for several days and officials and police made no move to interfere with the demonstrators.

The Beaver II, where the reenactment took place, is a 75-foot two-masted brig that was built in England and sailed across the Atlantic this fall. It is moored in Boston's Fort Point Channel, only a few yards from the site of the original Tea Party at Griffin's Warf.

VC war plans backed by Tho

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnamese peace negotiator Le Duc Tho said today North Vietnam will support the Viet Cong in any military action against the South Vietnamese army.

"In the face of continuous and grave violations of the (Paris peace) agreement by the Saigon administration with U.S. encouragement and support, there is no reason for the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam (Viet Cong) to stand idly by and let the other side do what it will," he said.

"The government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam fully supports the PRG position to take any action to punish the acts of war committed by the Saigon administration in violation of the cease-fire."

Court order defied, strike cuts off Detroit food supply

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite a federal court injunction forbidding a strike, truck drivers, warehousemen and dock workers walked off the job today, and set up picket lines that stopped delivery of food supplies to 400 supermarkets that serve 4.75 million consumers.

The walkout came three hours after U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton issued the Sunday injunction. Supermarket managers had warned a strike could "cause irreparable harm" to Detroit area residents.

A meeting was scheduled today with federal mediators and the two sides indicated they will attempt to resolve the conflict that is affecting 80 per cent of the supermarkets in the Detroit area.

About 150 of the 2,000 members of Teamster Local 337 were at the 94-acre Allied Supermarket complex, a large warehouse in suburban Livonia. Other pickets were reported at Kroger, Chatham, Great Scott and Wrigley warehouses.

Store managers said they had been stockpiling for the past several days in anticipation of the strike, but indicated they believe their extra stock would not last long.

Thornton's injunction Sunday came as thousands of panicky shoppers in the nation's fourth largest city crowded into supermarkets in an effort to stockpile food supplies on the eve of the holiday season.

"This is the worst possible time for something like this to happen," said Dan Carpenters, vice president of Borman Foods, Inc., which operates 87 Farmer Jack Stores. "With the holidays right around the corner and people buying heavily already, we expect very serious shortages to develop almost immediately."

Progress made as food strike talks continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the Federal Mediation Service said today "considerable progress" has been made toward settling Southern California's food strike but several serious issues remain.

"Every effort is being made to reach an agreement so the people can get back to work," William J. Usery Jr. said at the conclusion of a marathon session which lasted from 11 a.m. Sunday until 9:30 a.m. today.

Negotiators were scheduled to reconvene at 7:30 p.m. So far they have met for some 50 hours since talks opened here at 2 p.m. Friday.

"Considerable progress has been made in the negotiations," Usery said, "but several serious issues are still to be resolved."

L.V. Council must make decision

Open-space rule needed

LA VERNE — A spunky Planning Commission will make another attempt tonight to sell the City Council on the need for open space — this time citing a state law that requires adoption of such a plan by Jan. 1.

The council had eviscerated the commission's land conservation program, included in the general plan, by reducing it to only a sixth of its proposed size two months ago.

Then the council sent the general plan back to the commission for further study and approval.

But, according to Planning Director Charles R. Le Gros, unless the council adopts some open-space plan the city will be unable to issue any building permits after Jan. 1.

He said there were a number of large developments ready to go next month.

So rather than to wait for the adoption of the entire general plan which can take another two months — thus causing a two-month delay in building activities — the commission decided to lift the opens-space element out of the general plan and present it to the council separately.

In doing so, the commission has picked up the entire area which the council had lopped off — about 220 acres in and around the city — and put it back into the new open-space map.

The council will have to decide tonight for the second time what to do about open space. It can approve the Planning Commission's proposal or it can trim it to suit itself. But to satisfy the state, it has to pass an open-space plan by Jan. 1.

The council is also expected to take action tonight on the third phase of its general plan — the part that deals with the area south of Foothill Boulevard and east of B Street.

Since public hearings on the plan are over, the council will consider action requested by property owners on six parcels of land.

The council also is scheduled to resume a public hearing at 8 p.m. on whether to modify or revoke the permit of the Glenhaven Convalescent Hospital which its neighbors claim is a public nuisance.

The neighbors say the hospital permits mentally retarded patients to make noises throughout the night and to show themselves without clothes outside the hospital.

Caustic burns man's eyes; woman held

POMONA — A woman was accused of throwing ammonia into her son-in-law's face Saturday night during a family row.

The victim, Dana Jefferson, 22, was treated for burned corneas by a specialist at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Police later arrested Jefferson's mother-in-law, Lorise Lynn, 40, 838 E. La Verne Ave., and booked her on suspicion of assault with a caustic chemical.

They charged that Mrs. Lynn was admitted to the Jeffersons' apartment at 1320 S. Eleanor St., where she tossed ammonia into Jefferson's face because she disagreed with him about disciplining her grandson.

Mrs. Lynn charged that Jefferson had been harassing her and had beaten her up earlier.

Burglar steals as choir sings

UPLAND — A burglar pried open a locked cabinet and stole four purses belonging to choir members Sunday during worship services at the First Mennonite Church, 379 N. Campus Ave., police reported.

Police said the choir members after services returned to the locker and found their purses containing money and credit cards stolen by a thief.

MONTCLAIR — Margarita School will hold its holiday program at Serrano Junior High School Wednesday night at 7:30.

Children from all grade levels will perform under the direction of Mrs. Carol Rockwood. Included in the program will be the fifth and sixth grade chorus, songs by the kindergarten classes.

Thief takes purse, $1,300

ONTARIO — Florence Martinez of 118 E. Francis Ave., told police Sunday that someone had stolen her purse containing $1,300 in cash at the Spot Bar, 716 Bon View ave.

Fire hospitalizes 2 men in family

POMONA — A fire caused minor damage but a great deal of excitement in the Thomas Hamm residence Sunday afternoon.

Hamm, 43, of 1046 Tylene St., suffered an asthmatic attack and was taken by ambulance to Pomona Valley Community Hospital along with his son, Thomas Hamm III, 20, who was overcome by smoke from the fire that burned portions of a shed adjacent to the house.

Both men were trying to put out the fire with a garden hose when they became ill. Firemen used a resuscitator and emergency procedures to revive the men until an amublance arrived.

They wre treated and later released from the hospital Sunday afternoon.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the shed where another son, Dwayne, 13, was cleaning his bicycle with gasoline.

Firemen said he told them he lit the cardboard that was under his bike "to see if if would catch on fire."

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Talking Santa perfect gift for Christmas

BELLEVUE, Wash. (UPI) — Little Kathy Wilson was never able to make Santa Claus understand what she wanted, that is not until this year.

Kathy, a 7-year-old deaf mute, beamed with delight as Stuart Seaborn, the department store Santa, began communicating with her in sign language.

Seaborn said he had been disturbed by his inability to communicate directly with deaf mute children during six seasons as a Santa, so he learned how.

"You ought to see them when they realize I can talk with my hands," Seaborn said. "Their eyes get as big as manhole covers."

Kathy's 6-year-old brother Jeff may have put it best. "I'm sure this is the real Santa because he can talk with Kathy," he said.

Brawl leaves five men dead

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — A motorcycle gang brawl with guns, pool cues and chair legs left four persons dead and five in hospitals, and police held eight persons in custody today while they sought to learn what touched off the fighting.

A Flint hospital reported a fifth man died today from injuries suffered in the brawl between two gangs early Sunday, but homicide detectives said the report was wrong.

Police said in addition to the five persons hospitalized, at least six persons were hurt badly enough to require medical treatment.

Year-round school on agenda in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont school board tonight at 8:30 will receive a status report on the year-round program at Oakmont Elementary School.

Asst. Supt. Margaret Hodder and Oakmont Principal Dorothy Bromage attended a conference on year-round schools in San Diego in November and will share their experiences as well as comment on the local program which was started the past July.

The board also will receive a report on the status of the district's response to the current energy crisis, and a progress report on the Sycamore and La Puerta landscaping projects.

Board members will discuss paying themselves for the board meetings they attend under the allowances of Assembly Bill 1489, which sets the pay according to the district's average daily attendance.

Vermont produces more maple syrup than any other area in the world.

Danbury School students slate Christmas program

CLAREMONT — Danbury School for Orthopedically-Handicapped Students will celebrate Christmas with skits, verse and song Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Students will recite "The Night Before Christmas" and sing traditional Christmas songs directed by Mrs. Jan Dunkelbert.

"Where Food is Made with Butter 'n' Love"
Griswold's Old School House will carry on the tradition of Las Posadas, which is enacted just prior to Christmas every year in Mexico. It starts with the wanderers, Mary and Joseph, and their friends going from house to house seeking a room for the night on their way to Bethlehem. The wanderers carry candles and sing traditional carols.
When they finally reach a spot that will house them for the night, they are joyous and celebrate with the breaking of a large pinata. Children scramble for the prizes and candy which are inside the pinata.
This ceremony will be a feature every evening beginning December 16th to the 23rd at 6:30 p.m. Bring the family and join the candlelight procession.

PAID POLITICAL ADV.

Assemblyman Jerry Lewis A new Senator.

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was the first candidate in San Bernardino County to make full financial disclosure—including his 1972 IRS Return and a financial statement of his personal holdings and net worth.

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis introduced a first to American politics—full disclosure of all campaign mailers—in advance of mailing. To restore public confidence in our elective process and to put an end to false and misleading charges and smears, Assemblyman Jerry Lewis has released copies of all campaign mailers to the press, prior to mailing, and he has challenged every candidate in this special election to make the same disclosure.

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was the first elected representative to take a stand against deceitful and impersonal computer letters in elections

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis had the courage to call for the phase-out and elimination of special interest financing of political campaigns—by encouraging more local citizen involvement in our elective process.

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was one of the first representatives to oppose lowering air quality standards due to the energy crisis. Jerry Lewis has sponsored many strong anti-pollution measures which have become law. Lewis says: "We've fought too long and hard in the battle against smog to let up now."

1973 . . . Assemblyman Jerry Lewis received the enthusiastic endorsement of the California Association of Highway Patrolmen in the December 18th special election for State Senator. Law enforcement considers Jerry Lewis a friend. As our Assemblyman, Jerry Lewis has consistently supported programs and legislation to strengthen law enforcement and improve crime preventive measures and techniques.

In 1972, Assemblyman Jerry Lewis was re-elected to the California State Legislature by a margin in excess of 72%—representing across-the-board support from Republicans, Democrats and Independents.

1973 . . . Special Election for State Senator . . . Here's what's being said today about Assemblyman Jerry Lewis . . . LABOR—". . . he has consistently demonstrated a deep concern for the welfare of the working man and woman . . . sincerely dedicated to improving the quality of life and working conditions for all the citizens of San Bernardino County."—E. P. Westmoreland, Executive Secretary of the San Bernardino-Riverside Building and Construction Trades Council . . . REPUBLICANS—Assemblyman Jerry Lewis ". . . demonstrating intelligence, responsibility, courage and sound judgement."—San Bernardino County Republican Central Committee . . . DEMOCRATS—"We're going to do something this week that we have never done before—we're going to recommend a Republican for elective office . . ." Jerry Lewis ". . . has the courage, the broad view and the savvy to do our work there better than anyone who has come forward."—Mountain News, Democratic newspaper (11/22/73)

Sacramento has learned what the people of San Bernardino County have long known: Jerry Lewis is a dynamic, aggressive, independent leader who gets things done. His solid record of achievement, his fresh creative approach to the challenges of our state, and his dedication to the principles of sound government, have clearly marked him as a leader and the overwhelming choice for our new state senator in '74!

Claremont cuts down power use

CLAREMONT — City Manager Keith Mulrooney has directed city employes to join the energy conservation program by driving less than 55 miles an hour and engaging in a "system carpool program."

"City employes are strongly encouraged to participate," Mulrooney said. "All employes should consider forms of transportation which can serve as an alternative to the use of private vehicles to get to and from work."

Mulrooney said that all regularly scheduled coffee breaks taken by city employes will be taken either at the immediate work site or at a nearby location not requiring city vehicular transportation.

All field personnel have been directed to take their lunch breaks at the nearest city facility with water, shelter, or restroom facilities.

Mulrooney said that all city lighting should be reduced or turned off whenever practical in city facilities, and that decorative lighting also will be turned off.

Mulrooney ordered thermostats set at a maximum of 68 degrees for heating and minimum of 78 degrees for cooling.

He said that before equipment requiring fuel is bought by the city, it will undergo thorough review of comparative energy consumption.

Fire and police units also came in under the energy program. Patrol cars will have their engines and emergency equipment turned off except radios whenever practical at traffic stops.

Engines on fire pumpers involved in company inspections shall be turned off.

Organization is looking for veterans needing help

I represent a group of volunteers who exist with one purpose, to help any veteran and veteran's family in any way we can.

We are members of the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Veterans of World War I, Jewish War Veterans and the Order of the Purple Heart.

We ask our readers to let us know if they have a relative or a neighbor who is in a veterans hospital.

Here are a few questions for them to ask themselves so that we can help more effectively:

Does the veteran or family need transportation to the veterans hospital?

Does the veteran want or need visitors?

Does he have material needs?

Does he need help with forms or letters?

If the veteran has no connections with any church or religious group, can we help fill that lack?

If there are no church affiliations, does the family or veteran in either a veterans hospital or private hospital need assistance with funeral arrangements?

Call 624-5883 day or night. If there is no answer, call again. — R. S., Montclair.

You asked us to depart from our "initials only" rule to identify you as Ralph A. Shaw Sr., deputy chief of staff for the Eight District, Disabled American Veterans, and service officer of Pomona Post 30, American Legion.

Those who find it inconvenient to reach you by telephone may write to you at 4400 Holt Ave., Montclair, 91763.

I purchased a stereo set from an Ontario store two years ago. Three months ago I took it to the store to be repaired. I had a two-year parts and labor warranty on the set. The people at the store said the warranty was an error on their part but since it was in writing on my sales slip, they were willing to fix the set.

They said it would take six weeks to make the repair. That was nearly three months ago. When I called today and lost my temper, they told me the wrong part had been sent from New York and it would probably take another week. I would appreciate any help you can give me. — B.G., Claremont.

We waited the week they specified and three days extra but you didn't get your set. Then we asked them to keep their promise, mistake or no mistake, and return the set repaired. They did.

I sent for the 15-minute Beauty Renewal Plan face cream three months ago and I haven't heard one thing. Now I want my money back. — G. H., Pomona

We wrote to the firm which handles these two products. Each letter was returned with a notation that the ordered product was being shipped.

We are sorry you got the face cream instead of the refund you requested, G. H., but we can tell this is going to be a beautiful Christmas.

I have in my possession a canceled check written to Popular Mechanics magazine. I have never received the magazine. It was supposed to have been a birthday gift. — M. C., San Dimas.

Drunks on road, sidewalk are holiday police target

POMONA — Drunken drivers and drunken pedestrians will not be tolerated in traffic during the holidays, Police Chief F. P. Wallick warned today.

To make streets safe, 17,000 officers will patrol Los Angeles County with a determination to arrest drunken drivers and tipsy pedestrians before accidents occur, he said.

Last year the holiday safety program in the county helped reduce traffic fatalities to 17 from a high of 41 the previous year.

"Pomona will join 77 other cities in the county in a campaign to better last year's safety achievement," Wallick said.

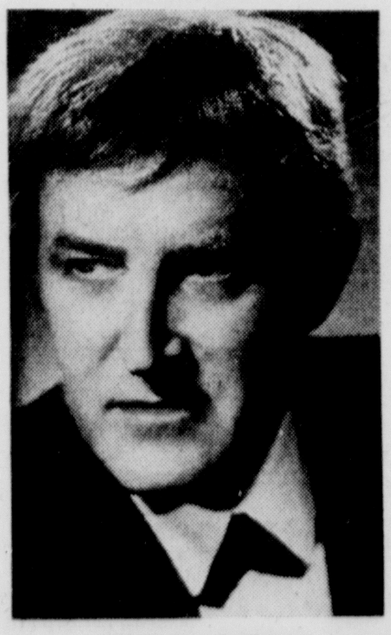

The annual holiday safety program was initiated by the Los Angeles County Peace Officers Association in cooperation with the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of the National Safety Council.

EDITORIAL

Opinion

Crisis fuels power fights in capitol

We shall all go through a great deal more suffering than necessary from fuel shortages in the months ahead because of frivolous human bottlenecks and vanities.

A highly-placed scientist in a key agency submitting an urgent energy report to his top boss was asked only one question: "Will this program bring me the most publicity?".

A White House insider admits to programs being held up by battles over whose empire will be expanded.

A government official investigating the reason several major companies were stalling on adopting proven methods of fuel saving found the managers were afraid that taking action at this time would leave them open to charges of previous inefficiency.

One technical man reports so many industrial managers have regularly refused to deal with energy-saving innovations that American inventors have been forced to go to Europe to get their ideas marketed.

An engineer official reports that an inter-agency meeting on the energy problem he attended recently bogged down so heavily in ideological discussions nothing could be accomplished. He came away with the conviction some officials are more interested in agonizing over philosophy than in attacking the technical problems. They just won't leave policy to the President and congress, he complains.

Other officials found some bureaucrats so rapidly anti-Nixon they're fighting any energy ideas from the White House. On the opposite side of the fence, some Nixon appointees blindly oppose any ideas which don't serve political ends.

A Congressman says that eager-beaver senators and representatives have put 300 to 400 energy bills in the hopper to get in on this crisis bandwagon. Few of these men, he says, really understand fuel-energy business. Their self-serving bills only add to the confusion and delay. But their activity brings favorable letters from constituents back home.

A confirmed environmentalist told his colleagues that Congressmen attempting to jump on the environmental bandwagon and those submitting to the pressure of strong antiipollution groups have voted for laws which are indefensible from any scientific standpoint, laws which severely handicap attempts at conserving energy and increasing fuel production.

A bureaucrat fumes at agencies which resist energy-saving and production-incentive programs which call for redefinitions of their objectives, even when the proposals would strongly benefit the nation in this crisis — exceptions to the anti-trust laws which would make posible joint industry funding and cooperation in energy savings and energy increasing programs, expansion of rapid tax writeoff systems and tax exemption programs to encourage more fuel economy and fuel substitution innovations, allocation of scarce materials to assist those industries which take high-risk gambles in fuel production and fuel efficiencey, and government testing of new technology to reduce somewhat the industrial risks involved.

Says one scientist-official: we must face the fact that throughout much of American industry and government there has been for some time an increasing reluctance by high officials to stake their careers on high-risk ventures, whether in energy or anything else.

Home brew

Some timely reporting by the Christian Science Monitor turns up a group of energy crisis sharpies obviously more imaginative than the prospective hoarders who in recent days have cleaned out automotive and surplus stores of virtually every container which will hold gasoline.

Farmers in Connecticut, Indiana and California were reported running machinery ranging from stoves, electrical generators, heaters and even automobiles on home-brewed gas. Unfortunately for most city dwellers the principal ingredients for the process were chicken, cow and hog manure mixed with a judicious amount of vegetable matter.

Anaerobic decay of the mixture produces methane gas, similar to the natural gas now in worldwide short supply, and burning methane makes the wheels go 'round.

Technologically, experts say that the four to five pounds of trash generated by every American every day also could produce about 15 pounds of methane — enough to meet 8 to 10 per cent of the nation's present need.

Unfortunately, like so many other projects which seem technically feasible but somehow aren't given sufficient priority, this type of conversion isn't likely to happen soon enough to ease the present squeeze.

Light for the ages

While man in his puny way wrestles with the crises of energy and war and pestilence, the inner soul of the Christian world once again lifts its eyes to the light of His life laid down to expiate our sins.

Christmas 1973, in much of the world, will shine more of its own brilliance than the tinsel and lights so gaily used to decorate for the season in much of the world. Man's light is dimmer this year just as man's ability to live in peace with himself has dimmed.

But Christmas, its meaning, His love are enduring and shine all the more brightly because of our frailties. It is a time when God's message remembered might well bring peace on earth and good will to all.

Skies still friendly to Spiro Agnew

WASHINGTON — Former Vice President Spiro Agnew still has enough clout to bump less celebrated passengers from their airline seats.

He still travels with a Secret Service escort. With two bodyguards running interference, he barged ahead of other passengers waiting in line at New York City's LaGuardia airport for the 4 p.m. Eastern shuttle flight to Washington on Dec. 6.

Among the displaced passengers were two Senate aides, Charles Bangert and Gerald Hellerman, who had been working all day on the energy crisis.

After Agnew had been comfortably seated with his Secret Service protectors alongside him, there was still one empty seat. The passenger ahead of Bangert and Hellerman was offered the space. "No thanks," replied the ruffled traveler. "I wouldn't ride on the same airplane with that man."

The bumped passengers were obliged to wait 21 minutes for a second shuttle plane.

An Eastern Airlines spokesman told us that Agnew was given special treatment at the request of the Secret Service. A Secret Service spokesman said the agents had made the request "to facilitate his security." Our repeated calls to Agnew's office brought no response.

FOOTNOTE: Eastern Airlines also gave favored treatment recently to President Nixon's friend Bebe Rebozo. Columnist Maxine Cheshire reported that a passenger aboard a Miami-to-Washington airliner was persuaded to give up her first-class seat and move back into the coach compartment in order to provide Rebozo with a comfortable seat. Rebozo was also delivered to the door of the plane in a limousine, with an Eastern official carrying his bags.

PRIVILEGED PASSENGERS: Spiro Agnew isn't the only bigwig, apparently, who gets special travel privileges.

While lesser Americans are scrambling for reservations during the holidays, their congressmen will get favored treatment.

On Dec. 10, Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., the House Democratic whip, sent a memo to his colleagues telling of "special arrangements" to assist them with their travel plans during the "adjournment period and the Christmas holidays."

Confides the memo: "Members experiencing difficulties in securing desired reservatipns may receive assistance by calling the congressional desks of the cooperating airlines." A listing of the priority phone numbers of 11 major airlines is thoughtfully provided.

"AMTRAK travelers," adds the McFall memo, may also "receive assistance" by calling special numbers.

McFall happens to be chairman of the Transportation Appropriations subcommittee, which controls the pursestrings for airlines and railroads. A spokesman for him conceded that "it's only because of the committee he's on that we could ask for help."

The request for congressional priority went out to both the Air Transport Association and to AMTRAK. Although the memo asserts that both "indicated they will do all they can to assist Members under these difficult circumstances," spokesman for both ATA and AMTRAK said the special telephone numbers will provide the congressmen a hearing but not necessarily a seat.

PLAYING POLITICS: The administration has been playing quiet politics with the $2.2 billion arms shipments to Israel.

Rush orders of rockets, shells, bombs and bullets, costing close to $1 billion, were flown to the Middle East. The remaining $1.2 billion worth of military hardware, most of it heavy and bulky, will be delivered by ship probably after the first of the year.

Competent sources have told us that the timing of the deliveries may depend upon the flexibility of the Israeli government in the Middle East negotiations.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, has indicated it may ask for $3 billion to make up for the $2.2 billion in armaments sent to Israel, contending that the replacements will be more costly than the original procurement.

This argument, however, doesn't allow for depreciation. In other words, the Pentagon is using the Middle East crisis to replace old equipment with new.

The Pentagon is also telling Congress that the airlift to Israel demonstrated that the United States needs more giant cargo planes. The biggest difficulty with the airlift, say our sources, was not the lack of planes but the refusal of Greece, Spain and Turkey to allow the planes to use U.S. bases in those countries.

FOOTNOTE: Our sources also report that the White House is making quiet appeals for Jewish support on Watergate, citing President Nixon's arms aid to Israel. Some Jewish congressmen have confirmed to us that delegations of rabbis have called on them to ease their pressure on the President over the Watergate scandals.

Migraine helped by electric earrings

Angel, years ago, suffered from migraine headaches. Knowing her husband, you figure he's enough to give anyone a pain sometimes. But we're not talking about "tension headaches"; we're talking about that most horrendous, disabling combination of dizziness, nausea and throbbing pain known as "migraine."

Significant alike to the sufferers and to those who love them is something new and simple — electrically charged earrings.

My fascination with electrophysiology has led you through an exploration of several medical applications of electricity which most of us construe to be "new."

Yet I have one textbook by an English neurologist, Dr. W. A. Gowers, describing how he treated neuralgia and neuritis effectively with acupuncture needles charged with low-voltage electricity in 1893!

As recently as now, Dr. Max Sadov, in charge of the pain clinic at prestigious Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago, reports an impressive 85 per cent favorable response by migraine sufferers in some degree to acupuncture employing electrically charged needles for increased nerve stimulation.

Dr. Alex Arieff of Northwestern University's medical staff is adapting this technique in a manner which may eventuate in a "home remedy" for symptomatic relief of migraine as simple as electrically charged earrings.

The first earrings adapted Dr. Arieff purchased from Sears for $3. Unlike electrodes which must penetrate or be glued to the skin, these clip-on earrings hold themselves in place while a mildly sensational — a tingling — low-voltage current is induced.

The headache is usually relieved or gone within 30 minutes. So simple and inexpensive is the device that similar ones are in use in Taiwan for at-home treatment of drug withdrawal symptoms.

American physicians, properly skeptical of electronic gadgetry, necessarily advance with caution. What I have described is "exploratory experimental."

It will take a good many physicians of the stature of these I have named "sticking their necks out," so to speak, before a technique this revolutionary will be refined, accepted or imitated.

There remains one school of scientific thought convinced that such remedies employ nothing more than self-hypnosis. Yet the person with a throbbing, sick headache is less likely to care what the remedy involves it it's harmless and if it works.

Parade aftermath

The Prog Photographer overlooked one graphic picture of "THE PARADE IN POMONA." Sunday church go-ers and travellers were confronted visually with a morning-after scene of an appalling, unbelievable clutter of bottles, cans, paper! What an aftermath of something beautiful! What an example of the Christmas spirit! . . .of civic pride!

Street sweeper and wind may clear the street; business and resident, the parkways, sidewalks, and yards. But the unpleasant memory lingers. —Helen Bowser, Pomona.

X'mas tree

It seems Congress is trying to make every piece of legislation a X'mas tree.

Thus the pending emergency energy legislation (32589) by Senator Jackson (D. Wash.) provides jobless compensation, extra food stamps, etc.

Senate action on Rail-Reorganization contemplates expensive labor protection provisions. Since feather bedding was such a factor in bankrupting the railroads, additional benefits appear questionable.

Pork barrel tactics slow down essential legislation. We should expect our representatives to keep legislation relevant, so that it may be properly considered.—Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Format commended

By eliminating the separate categories for male and female, you are supporting the fight to end arbitrary job discrimination by sex. —Susan M. Graham, Pomona.

Gossip for today

In a country which is able to supply its citizens with 200 different kinds of sausages, with horoscopes for their pets, and bathroom radios that also hold a roll of toilet paper, nothing is impossible. It is American ingenuity and inventive genius such as that which revives my faith in our country's future. I just remind myself of all those wonders which have already been accomplished and realize that American know-how is bound to come up with a quick and easy solution to our energy problems.

INSIDE REPORT

V.P. Ford no patsy for Nixon

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Vice President Gerald Ford, whose swearing-in evoked the only genuine political sentimentality in the Capitol since the Watergate scandals, has dismayed supporters by rejecting important advice from long-time political intimates.

Advice No. 1: That Ford forego his annual skiing vacation over the Christmas holidays and stay in Washington, thus building the "take-charge" image of a Vice President in a unique situation who is fully equipped to lead the country if Richard Nixon falls.

Advice No. 2: That Ford hire a sophisticated politician of wide experience as his chief aide to run a serious Ford staff largely independent of the White House and capable of tackling major issues.

Having been in office only one week, Jerry Ford has plenty of time to create the impressive staff his supporters envision. The disappointment is real, however, that on the strength of a pledge to his long-time administrative aide, Robert T. Hartmann, he has now made Hartmann his chief of staff.

"Bob Hartmann is a bright guy and a tough guy, but he rubs almost everyone the wrong way without even knowing it," one Ford intimate told us. In sum, Hartmann falls short of the dynamism that Ford allies feel is needed, even though his toughness will be an asset in predictable battles between the Ford and the Nixon staffs.

Bright spot in staff

One bright spot in the new Ford staff is Kenneth Belieu, a former Lyndon Johnson aide who served in high Pentagon jobs for both President Kennedy and President Nixon. Belieu will run Ford's legislative affairs office, and he has high prestige with Congress.

Ford's staff is just beginning to grow. Major changes — including the all-important spot of staff chief — cannot be ruled out in the future. Far more important to Ford, as the only Vice President in history chosen by Congress on the recommendation of a President, is his political relationship with Mr. Nixon and the Republican party. It is here that the decision not to postpone his skiing vacation until February may have cost Ford a symbolic advantage.

As one Republican elder told us: "The President is going South or West, Congress is going home, but the political crisis over Nixon's future, the energy thing and the Middle East will stay right here in Washington. Ford should stay here, too, to show that he is different and to begin to fill that terrible leadership vacuum."

But Ford chose Christmas as usual, a hint that he will not allow himself to become a foil for Republicans who want the President to resign. Moreover, no sooner had Ford been sworn in than he began a major defensive sweep for the President, clearing him of Watergate blame and praising his release of personal financial data.

Political friends bothered

That is precisely what bothers Ford's political friends, and other Republicans well to Ford's left, who see the party's only salvation in Ford replacing Mr. Nixon well before the 1974 general election. For these Republicans, Ford's first week was vaguely disquieting.

Yet, Ford himself is well aware of the risks of becoming a White House patsy. For example, Mr. Nixon at first insisted that the Ford swearing-in be a Nixon operation, held in the White House. Ford, backed by the entire congressional leadership of both parties, said no.

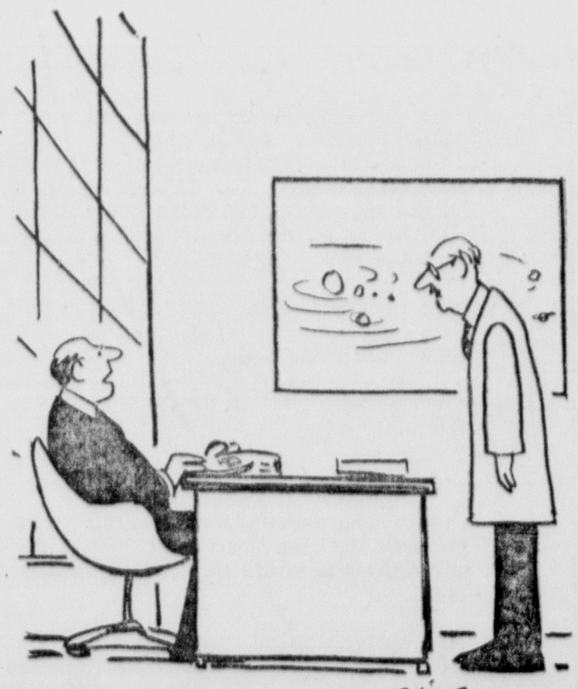

What helped finally persuade the President was Ford's private word, spoken with candor, that a walk down the House aisle with Ford might enhance the beleaguered President.

Perhaps more significant, despite his reputation for following the letter of any presidential command, Ford at least once in the recent past flatly refused to do the White House bidding in a matter involving high and confidential national politics. The reason: Ford thought it would be personally dishonorable.

In short, despite Ford's seeming lack of guile, he has shown he can sharply circumscribe his obligations to Mr. Nixon.

Whether sharply enough remains to be seen. He is walking a tightrope as hand-picked Vice President to an all but fallen President. To fulfill his obligations to his party and to the presidency (as opposed to the President), his closest political friends feel he must not become front-man for Mr. Nixon, but instead the No. 2 man in the nation.

CAROLS, ANYONE?

From left, Monty Mansfield, Colleen Kayashima and Norma Guerrero rehearse Christmas tunes with their choral director Lorraine Richartz. The trio will be among the performers in the annual Chino High Christmas concerts at 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the school multipurpose room.

Christmas parades are elementary, kids at Newman School demonstrate

CHINO — The spirit of holiday parades is kept alive in this West End community by the nearly 800 students at Newman Elementary School as they prepare floats and Christmas fare for a "mini" parade Thursday morning at 10:30.

Norm Hoffmann, principal, announced the parade this week that will hopefully become a traditional, annual affair.

"We started it last year as part of our mentally gifted minor (MGM) activities. As you know, last year the Chino Christmas parade was canceled and the kids got the idea from that," Hoffman explained.

"We're now trying to make it a traditional, annual affair. This year we've opened it to other rooms and groups like the Brownies, baton twirlers, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts."

The school, located at Pipeline and Walnut avenues, is now in a flurry of Christmas activities, with Christmas projects, holiday shadow boxes, paper trees, Christmas stockings and a multitude of pictures of Santa Claus, snow flakes and gaily wrapped gift boxes.

The principal expects 10 to 12 floats, each pulled by wooden wagons and "kid power." The floats are made of paper mache and a variety of items gathered from home and pooled from school resources.

"All the floats are made by the kids. They use their own imagination and make them in the classrooms with help from the teachers. It's a school-wide thing," he said.

Five perpetual trophies will be awarded in the categories of sweepstakes, and teachers', students', PTA and principal's selections.

The parade will begin near the multipurpose room, circle around along the primary blacktop to the upper grade blacktop and to the administration building.

Mrs. Marvell Pruitt, teacher and MGM coordinator, is the organizer behind the holiday trot around campus. Her class last year provided the impetus for the parade.

Floats will feature a variety of holiday themes from the fantasy of Frosty the Snowman to the call for "Peace on Earth" to the spiritual quality of a manger scene.

For those West End residents who miss the cheer of a Christmas parade, the Newman School staff invites them to tag along.

Handbell choir to be Christmas program

As its Christmas luncheon program, Pomona Ebell will feature the Peace Ringers, a handbell choir composed of teen-age youths from the First United Methodist Church in Orange.

The Peace Ringers have been active for six years and have rung over 175 concerts since August 1970 including church, community organizations and conventions.

During their 1971-72 season, they recorded and sold 1000 L.P. stereo records featuring music played in the spring of 1971. They have just recorded their 1973 concert music.

The director, Mrs. Wesley Marquart, is a member of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers and the Chorister's Guild of America. She now supervises three groups of handbell ringers. Bell ringing requires a special discipline not characteristic of other groups and demands cooperation, concentration and perfection for performances.

Guests at the holiday luncheon will be greeted at the door by Mmes. Frank McMahon, Thomas Johnson, Oscar Glueck, Charlotte Wangler and John Coutts.

Bad ones forgotten

Director doubts if older films better than new

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — William Wyler, one of a handful of great directors, looked back on forty years of movie making and doubted very much if the heralded pictures of the 40s and 50s were any better than today's films.

"It's debatable," said the man who began directing westerns in 1929 for $60 a week. "Television only shows the good pictures from the past. None of the bad ones are put on the air. Mercifully, the bad ones are forgotten.

"If movies aren't making as much money as they used to, it cannot be blamed on the young directors. The box office is not a measure of quality.

"I've had some box office failures—'The Liberation of L. B. Jones' and 'The Collector' to name a couple—that were critical successes.

"There are some good new directors around who like to show off with the camera. These young men are tempted to draw attention to themselves because they are not up there on the screen with the actors. Many critics fall for this and think they are watching genius.

"When I began the critics never paid any attention to the director. Today they pay too much attention to him and what he's thinking and doing. This only encourages the director to use more camera tricks.

"Directors have become a disturbing element in pictures, dreaming up ideas about what to do with the camera. But the camera isn't a toy. A disciplined director discards an idea if it doesn't help the scene.

"John Ford hardly ever moved the cameras in his movies, and look at his enormous success over the years."

Wyler is 71 years old, slightly deaf and disinclined to work again. His life has been set down in a new biography by Alex Madsen with whom he worked on and off for a year.

"I'd never have written it myself," he said. "I'm full of admiration for Frank Capra who spent four years of his life writing his book. I am not a writer. I'm a director.

"In all my movies I was a story teller, using the medium of film. It is fashionable now not to tell a story. Directors make the audience guess at what is happening. We're left to fill in what we've seen. It's like listening to a pointless joke.

"Hitchcock always keeps the audience guessing, but he comes across with a logical ending. If he didn't have to do that he could make a dozen pictures every year."

Wyler won three Academy Awards during his active years behind the camera—for "Mrs. Miniver," "The Best Years of Our Lives" and "Ben Hur."

Curiously, none of the trio are among his favorites. He is more proud of his work on "Wuthering Heights" and "Roman Holiday."

His "Ben Hur" earned more than $70 million, and he is still catching hell from critics.

"They say I prostituted myself by doing 'Ben Hur.' I guess they thought any movie that made that much money was coarse and crude," he said. "But they loved 'The Collector' which didn't earn a dime.

"I never jumped from one picture to the next, except in my early days as a beginner. I liked to take my time, doing one film every two years.

"I am offered pictures now and enjoy saying, 'No thank you.' I didn't know until I got older how physically tiring directing is. Now I take life easy and travel all over the world.

MANY HATS — Film star Rod Steiger, man of many hats who has portrayed such personalities as Al Capone and Napoleon, is undertaking the role of former Italian dictator Benito Mussolini in a new movie. Steiger is seen with Italian actress Lisa Gastoni, who plays the role of Mussolini's mistress in the film: "Mussolino, The Last Act."

Lives alone and loves it

Kim Novak has escaped horrors that plague ex-sex goddesses

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Kim Novak has escaped the multiple horrors of the ex-sex goddess— alcoholism, lunacy, drugs, revolving door marriages and suicide.

Now almost semi-retired, Kim is 40 years old and living a life as far removed from Hollywood glamor as is possible.

She has built a new, rustic home on a 20-acre site in the mountains above Carmel, where she lives alone except for her collection of wild and domesticated animals.

The trip to Hollywood is made only for work, which is increasingly scarce. Kim is virtually a female Henry Thoreau.

"I have three dogs, four horses, a llama, a goat, four raccoons and a mynah bird," Kim said happily. "But they are the ones who come in and out of the house. There are hundreds of wild creatures—birds and rabbits and others— that I feed and care for, too."

Kim's new house has a freestanding fireplace and a soaring roof, the center of which is a skylight with stained-glass panes.

"It's wonderful to lie here on the floor and look up at the stars during the night," she said. "And in daytime the house is flooded with sunshine and rainbows from the colored glass."

Her kitchen counter extends outdoors. During meals Kim sits at the counter while a collection of small animals and birds dine outside.

Meadows and woods surround the property which is contiguous to a wild area in which she goes on long horseback rides alone. She rides bareback most of the time, guiding her horse without a bridle.

Not long ago Kim spent four weeks at MGM starring in her first television movie, "Third Girl From the Left." She regretted taking the time away from her menagerie.

"They haven't quite forgiven me yet," she said. "They couldn't understand why they had to be penned up.

"No two days are the same up here. The only routine I have is feeding the animals. My father inspired my love of nature when he took me and my sister on hikes in the woods and collected insects and small birds.

"I don't think my animals are a replacement for children. I really don't have a maternal relationship with them. They are my comrades more than anything. They teach me more than I teach them.

"When I was a girl I always wanted to be a veterinarian. That was my dream. Acting was a detour for me—an enjoyable one, but not a career I really planned. Now I'm dating a local veterinarian and couldn't be happier.

"But I'm not thinking about marriage. My life is rich and full. I don't need a husband right now.

"I believe survival lies in simple answers, the same kind that animals live by. You can't fool the animals because they react on basic instincts. It wouldn't hurt human beings to do the same."

Kim is not a reformer, nor is she a recluse. She has found her little corner of the world and is content to work only occasionally.

"My life is perfect the way it is," Kim concluded. "I can't think of any changes I'd make even if I had three wishes."

O.J. surpasses magic 2,000

Oakland, Cincinnati, Dallas win titles

By United Press International

The National Football League mathematical whizzes now can forget about playoff probabilites and possibilites and concentrate on inscribing O.J. Simpson's name into the record books.

The NFL finally sorted out its five remaining playoff berths on the final weekend of play and Simpson ended all question concerning his run at the NFL single-season rushing record by absolutely obliterating it and becoming the first player in NFL history to surpass 2,000 yards in a season.

The playoff picture shapes up this way.

In the American Conference, Miami, which wrapped up the East long ago, ended its season Saturday with a 34-7 rout of Detroit. The Dolphins will play host Sunday to Cincinnati, which had to battle to defeat Houston 27-24 and capture the Central title.

Oakland won the Western championship by holding off Denver 21 - 17 and will host Pittsburgh, which clinched a wild card berth Saturday by bombing San Francisco 33-14, in opening round playoff action Saturday. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh tied with 10-4 records but Cincinnati gained the title with a better conference record.

In the National Conference, Minnesota, the first club to clinch a title, finished up 12-12 by ripping the New York Giants 31-7. The Vikings will entertain Washington, the wild card team after downing Philadelphia 38-20, while Dallas, which won the NFC East by clubbing St. Louis 30-3, hosts Los Angeles, a 30-17 winner over Cleveland Sunday.

Buffalo routed the New York Jets 34-14 as Simpson became the first runner in history to put together three 200 yard games in a season. He carried 34 times for 200 yards to finish with 2,003 yards, wiping out Jim Brown's 10-year-old mark of 1,863.

Elsewhere, Baltimore downed New England 18-13, Kansas City trounced San Diego 33-6, Green Bay shut out Chicago 210 and Atlanta edged New Orleans 14-10.

Simpson broke Brown's record on his eighth carry of the day and went over the 2,000-yard mark with 5:56 left to play. He scored on a 13-yard run and rookie Bill Cahill returned a punt 51 yards for another score 48 seconds later to break open the game.

"This is just unbelievable," said Simpson, who broke the record on an icy, snow-covered field. "We've worked hard all year and we're just glad it worked out so well. We're the youngest team in pro football and our future looks great.

"It's been a tough week. People have been calling me all week asking me about the record and it was hard to keep it out of my mind. I just tried to concentrate on the ballgame. At first I thought the field might slow me down but as it turned out, there was no problem."

It hasn't hit me yet, but I guess it will when I get home. It's just so hard to believe."

The Bills also set a league record for team rushing yardage, going over the 3,000 mark for the season. Joe Namath had two TD passes for the Jets.

Denver gambled on a fake punt and lost and Ken Stabler turned it into the winning touchdown as Oakland edged Denver in their do-or-die battle. Oakland led 14-10 when Denver tried the fake punt on its own 49 and failed. Stabler then threw a 31-yard TD pass to Mike Siani for the margin of victory.

"We've been in six playoffs the last seven years," said Oakland Coach John Madden, "but this was the toughest one to get into. We lost to Pittsburgh and Cleveland and needed to win four in a row to get into the playoffs and we did it.

"Now we have to play Pittsburgh again. It'll be a short week, inasmuch as the game against the Steelers comes on Saturday, but we know what we have to do. We lost to the Steelers in the playoffs last year on a freak play and we got beat by them on a bad field earlier this year. There is little about them we don't know. Maybe the third time is the charm and we will beat them."

"Poor execution hurt us," said Bronco Coach John Ralston. "We had a poor snap from center, (Joe) Dawkins forgot to give the ball to (Otis) Armstrong and then ran left instead of right. If Dawkins gets the ball to Armstrong, he'd still be running. There was a hole on the right side big enough for a truck to go through."

Ken Anderson threw TD passes of 77 and 67 yards to rookie Isaac Curtis and 10 yards to Bob Trumpy as Cincinnati held off determined Houston. The Bengals led 27-10 but had to survive a two-TD scare in the last quarter by the Oilers, who finished at 1-13, the worst record in the NFL.

"There is nobody too happy with the way we played," Curtis said. "We didn't have our mind on the game. We were looking ahead."

"It would have been awful easy to lay down but they went out there and played their hearts out," Oilers Coach Sid Gillman said.

"We were expecting this," Bengal Coach Paul Brown said. "It was a situation of the last game of the season, of a game that we were supposed to win easily and the other team was fired up."

Roger Staubach threw for 256 yards and three TDs as Dallas overwhelmed St. Louis. Two TD passes went to rookie Drew Pearson and the third to Jean Fugett.

"It was as rewarding a win as the first one (for the title) in 1966," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It was all the more rewarding since we lost out for the title last year."

"It's been a very bad time for me," Staubach said. "My mother was sick all season. Yet the way she accepted her fate some months ago picked me up. I won the game for her. Every time I played, I was trying to win for her."

Bill Kilmer threw four TD passes, three of them to Larry Brown, to lead Washington over Philadelphia.

"As far as I'm concerned we're in a first place tie with Dallas," said Washington Coach George Allen. "They get the division title because of the point thing but I look at it as if we're tied with them."

On Saturday, Pittsburgh's defense intercepted six passes and bottled up San Francisco's offense until the closing minutes to gain a playoff berth.

"We had some trouble getting untracked," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "The 49ers came after us in the first half but they seemed to lose their steam and desire in the second half. They're a pretty good team but they have problems. I'm just happy we caught them when they were down."

Rookie Lawrence McCutcheon set a club season rushing record by gaining close to 1,100 yards and John Hadl threw for two scores as Los Angeles beat Cleveland and Terry Brown's 63-yard return for a TD with an interception highlighted the Vikings' win over the Giants.

Jan Stenerud's four field goals carried Kansas City over San Diego and Eddie Ray ran for two TDs to power Atlanta over New Orelans. Lydell Mitchell ran for 142 yards to break Alan Ameche's singleseason club rushing record as the Colts upended New England and Jerry Tagge completed only three passes but two of them were for the first TDs of his pro career as Green Bay whipped Chicago.

Rams begin new season

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer.

LOS ANGELES — The Rams' season-long success story had a happy ending Sunday, for the regular season at least.

But as coach Chuck Knox said in the crowded post-game locker room, "Now a new season begins. It's a new season."

And so the most successful rookie coach in NFL history put a 12-2 season capped by a 30-17 victory over the Cleveland Browns behind him and began work on the next, and as usual, "biggest game," for his team.

This time it is the biggest. Knox's bag of surprises, better known as the Rams, now face the revenge-minded and Super Bowl-hungry Dallas Cowboys in Dallas Sunday in the opening round of playoff games.

Shoved into the background for the moment is the apparent cold war between the Rams and the Coliseum Commission over a new lease.

A San Fernando Valley paper last week reported that Rosenbloom was preparing to build a new stadium in the Valley near Universal City.

Coliseum general manager Jim Hardy is distressed by this latest rumor. "I've read the story," he admitted, "but I think we can make a deal with the Rams. We're negotiating with them and I still think we can reach agreement."

"The trouble is," he continued, "these stories and quotes attributed to one or both sides keep cropping up. We can't fight each other in the newspapers."

As for the central figure in the situation, Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom had only this comment about the rumored stadium in the Valley, "It's nothing I know anything about."

Rosenbloom, like his coach, wanted only to think about the next game and, perhaps, reflect on a previous contest.

On October 14th, the Rams stunned the Cowboys, 37-31, in the Coliseum.

"We'll start thinking about Dallas tonight," Knox said, "but our preparation will be the same as it has been all year. There'll be no changes from the usual routine we began on July 8 when we started training camp."

Knox did admit he was happy about the season behind him.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of our football team and the 12-2 season," he said. Our success has been due to a combination of things and I can't pinpoint any one key factor."

The Rams, as Knox conceded, looked a little ragged at times Sunday, but the crowd of 73,848 saw the Rams set seven individual or team records and narrowly miss two others.

Lawrence McCutcheon, still officially a rookie (because although he appeared in three games last year, he did not carry the ball at all) gained 83 yards in 11 carries to bring his season total to 1,097 yards breaking the record set by Dick Bass (1,090) in 1966.

Tourney of Champions begins

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Beginning tonight and lasting for four of the next five days, some of the best high school basketball action in California will be on display at Mt. San Antonio College.

The event is called the San Dimas Tournament of Champions, and it brings together eight of the top basketball teams in the state to be pitted against each other.

Included in the exclusive list of entrants is the defending CIF 4-A champion, the defending 3-A champion, the king of Northern California and the defending tournament champion.

Host San Dimas, which is trying to find a way to just watch the action instead of being involved in it, opens the tournament tonight at 7 p.m. against the defending 4-A champ and five-time CIF king Verbum Dei.

Then the only other valley entrant in the tourney, Ganesha, will take on last year's CIF 4-A runnerup in the playoffs, Pasadena, at 8:30 p.m.

"I've already conceded two losses, and I don't like to lose," stated San Dimas coach Bob Espinoza. "We're young and are still making mistakes.

"The caliber of this tournament is about the same as the CIF playoffs," he added.

Espinoza should know.

Last year he took his Saints to the semifinals of the 2-A playoffs, and in doing so was named the Pomona Valley Coach of the Year. But this year is the first year San Dimas is suffering from a loss to graduation. The players who played for Espinoza last season were at the school for four years, so they were well-seasoned and experienced. This year's team is much younger and has already posted a not-too-impressive 2-4 record.

This tournament could be considered a notch or two better than the CIF playoffs, simply because the teams involved are from all divisions instead of just one.

Four of the teams will be playing in 4-A competition this year — Verbum Dei, Morningside, Pasadena and Covina. Two will compete in the 3-A division — Ganesha and Murphy. And only San Dimas is from the 2-A level. St. Elizabeth, since competing up north instead of in the southern section, isn't listed in a level but would probably compete in 4-A or 3-A.

If Ganesha can put together a few games like the one the Giants played against Claremont in the Upland-Montclair Tournament two weeks ago, they should be considered one of the favorites in the tourney.

In that game Ganesha reeled off 40 points in one quarter and ended up with 62 points at the end of the first half. The Giants whipped Claremont by an 89-63 score. Also in that tourney, Ganesha tied the tournament record for most points in a game when it defeated Duarte in the opening, 99-61. The Giants went on to win the tournament, but haven't seen any action since.

"I've been pleased with the overall attitude of the team," noted Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson. "We're playing with cohesiveness now. I guess it's because the players have been playing together a lot."

The Giants will be paced by all-CIF (third team) center Clever Porter, who is averaging 24.6 points per game this year, and forward Broderick Hunter, who is dumping in an average of 17.2 points per outing.

Other Ganesha starters will probably be forward Gary George and guards Mike Hall and Earl Wilson.

Pasadena, under veteran coach George Terzian, is only returning starter in guard Michael Grey (6-1, 154). But he averaged 14 points per game in last year's tournament. The only other returning letterman is center-forward Glenn McGiven (6-4).

Riverside race has big purse

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — NASCAR's Winston Western 500, offering a purse of more than $100,000, will be held over Riverside's 2.62-mile road course Jan. 20.

The Western 500 is one of only two Grand National stock car races held on a road course. The other, the Tuborg 400, is held here in June.

Drivers expected to compete in the January race include four-time NASCAR champion Richard Petty and 1973 Driver of the Year David Pearson.

Hadl named Rams' MVP

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback John Hadl was honored as most valuable player of the Los Angeles Rams in awards presented Sunday by Ye Old Rams, a group of ex-players.

Other awards went to Joe Scibelli as the offensive lineman of the year; Jack Young blood as defensive lineman; Lawrence McCutcheon, outstanding offensive back; Harold Jackson, best wide receiver; Dave Elmendorf, defensive back; and Eddie McMillan, rookie of the year.

Lakers play well, but still lose to Celts

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — Lady Luck called a double foul on the Lakers Sunday night.

First they found out Jerry West will be out for probably a month because he reinjured or aggravated his pulled groin muscle against Cleveland and the only therapy is rest.

Then the Lakers went out and played three quarters of their best basketball in two weeks. Unfortunately, three quarters do not a basketball game make.

As a result, the defending Pacific Division champions lost a 115-110 game to the visiting Boston Celtics. It was the Lakers' eighth loss in 10 games and they have not beat the Celtics now in nearly two years (since Feb. 20, 1972).

Had the Lakers played well in the third quarter, they would have chalked up a win over their toughest rival. But something happens to Bill Sharman's club after the first half.

They apparently leave their game in the dressing room at intermission and don't regain it until the fourth quarter.

A perplexed Sharman, suffering from the flu, could only scratch his head.

"I don't know what happens to us in the third quarter," he said. "We're aware of the problem. We talk about it at halftime. But we still go back out there and play poorly."

Sharman gave the credit to Boston's quickness and speed. "They're quick moving and quick cutting and they sustain it," he said, "and we just can't seem to do that."

Kings begin road journey

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings, beaten at home by the Montreal Canadiens Saturday night, play three games this week, two of them on the road.

The Kings, who have 22 points on 9 wins and 4 ties against 16 losses, are at Detroit Tuesday night and St. Louis Wednesday night, returning to the Forum for a meeting next Saturday night with the Minnesota North Stars.

The Kings' 6-2 loss to the defending Stanley Cup champions gave Montreal a 15-game unbeaten streak against Los Angeles.

Sheldon Kannegiesser and Randy Rota accounted for the Kings' goals in the last period.

Rams finish season with 30-17 win

The 1973 Rams are the first even to win 12 games in a regular season.

As a team, they had 26 rushing plays Sunday to bring their season total to 640 breaking a league record set in 1934 by the Detroit Lions and equalled in 1949 by the Philadelphia Eagles.

They made 10 first downs rushing to bring their season total to 177 and break a record (170) set by the Miami Dolphins in 1970.

With 231 yards gained rushing, the Rams wound up with 2,925 for the season short by 36 yards of breaking the record of 2,960 set by the Dolphins last year.

Their 16 first downs gave them 294 for the season, shy by three of the 297 made by Dallas in 1968 and equaled by Oakland last year.

McCutcheon's words belied his outward calm. "This is really an exciting feeling," he said. "It's hard to explain how I feel. But I've had fine blocking by the line and also by Jimmy Bertelsen."

As for Dallas, McCutcheon said, "They're a hard team to run against. I know they'll be tough."

McCutcheon revealed he came to training camp determined to succeed.

"I came to camp with the idea I could be a number one starting back," he remarked.

While McCutcheon was fielding questions about his new success, quarterback John Hadl was busy refuting a old familiar refrain.

The Rams' signal caller had completed six of 14 passes for 92 yards and two touchdowns (to tight end Bob Klein and wide receiver Harold Jackson). He also had had an interception nullified by a Cleveland penalty.

"Your passing has been inconsistent the last six games," charged a writer from one of Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers.

Hadl, whose passing Sunday was not especially sharp, was incensed.

"That's a bunch of bleep," he bleeped. "I've been fighting statistics for eight years. We've won 12 games and lost only two this year and have just completed our second string of six straight. We're in the playoffs. That's all I care about."

It was the second most exciting thing that had happened. The other was the running of Cleveland rookie Greg Pruitt who is proving that a 5-10, 190 pound running back can find happiness in the NFL.

Sports news in brief

LEE KUNZMAN, the driver injured last Tuesday at Ontario Motor Speedway while conducting tire tests, is listed in fair condition today at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

WALLACE "WALLY" BUTTS, the little round man who took Georgia football to the heights and then saw his 22-year coaching career end in controversy, died today in Athens, Ga. of a heart attack. He was 68.

THE THREE-DAY BREAK from practice enjoyed by Ohio State — Saturday, Sunday and today — shouldn't hurt the Buckeyes, coach Woody Hayes said. He will resume drills Tuesday in Columbus.

JOE NAMATH may have played his last game at quarterback for the New York Jets — but the only man who might know for sure is not saying. "I just don't know," Namath says.

FIVE PLAYERS crashed the once magic 1,000-yard rushing barrier in the National Football League this season, bringing the total of 1,000-yard rushing seasons over the years to 63. The five were O.J. Simpson of Buffalo, John Brockington of Green Bay, Calvin Hill of Dallas, Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles and Larry Csonka of Miami.

ADOLPH RUPP, the famous Kentucky basketball coach, continued to improve Sunday night following his hospitalization for a perforated ulcer. Rupp, 72, is expected to remain in an Orlando, Fla. hospital for another seven to 10 days before returning home to Kentucky.

THE PITTSBURGH STEELERS are going to Palm Springs to get ready for Saturday's playoff game against the Oakland Raiders. Pittsburgh is staying in California after defeating the San Francisco 49ers, 37-14, Saturday.

Espinoza admits his San Dimas Saints are rebuilding after losing two greats to graduation (Jeff Nelson and Wayne Moses). Returning starter Jim Johnson (5-10, 165) will be joined by 5-9 junior Bobby Childress, considered one of the best and quickest guards in the valley, Greg McCrary (6-4, 190), a superb outside shooter with capabilities to handle the Saints' inside game, Matt Draayom (6-6), who rebounds well, drives the basket with the best, and can hook, and Steve Brahs, who led the JV team in scoring last year.

McCrary is the leading scorer for the Saints so far this year with a 15.8 average.

Verdum Dei, under new head coach John Sneed, has four returning lettermen. David Greenwood (6-10, 210) rebounds very well and gets the ball released. He can run the fast break too.

Roy Hamilton (6-1, 165) plays both ends of the floor, starts at the point, a great floor leader, makes few mistakes, and will definitely be a major college guard.

Mike Lewis (6-0, 154) is the other starting guard and is starting his third varsity season. His defensively ability is complimentary to his fine ball handling.

Reggie Bowie (6-3, 172) was partially responsible for part of the Eagles' success last year. He was able to come off of the bench and handle the forward position very well.

The first round of the tournament will be completed Tuesday night when Murphy battles Morningside at 7 p.m. and Covina takes on St. Elizabeth of Oakland at 8:30 p.m.

Other tournaments will be taking place this week, involving valley schools.

Rowland will be competing in the Troy Tournament and Garey will travel to Las Vegas to battle for the Western Las Vegas Tournament championship.

Both of those will begin action Thursday, with Garey opening against Reno in the first round.

The Laguna Beach Tourney will have two valley schools competing in it. Ontario will begin play Tuesday night at 8 p.m. against Saddleback. Walnut will wait until Wednesday, and then will face Canyon at 5 p.m.

Damien will also enter a tournament this week, the Pius X Tourney, and will open against Bosco Tech Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

L.A. plays well

Lakers decisioned by Celts

There were also these disquieting thoughts.

"For some reason, I don't know why, we just aren't a good rebounding club," he continued, "and we have too many people who aren't used to the running game."

The first quarter ended in a 30-30 tie. At the half the Lakers held a four-point lead, 60-56. They ran with the runningest club in the NBA and outshot them (45.3 per cent to 34.6 per cent).

Halftime statistics showed the Lakers with just eight turnovers to Boston's 10. And the defense was so good the Celtics' made only eight of 31 shots in the second quarter.

Then came the intermission and maybe the real Laker team stayed in the dressing room. The bunch that came out wearing Los Angeles uniforms stood around looking at each other most of the time (combing their hair as Chick Hearn would say).

They hit on only four of 22 shots (18.2 per cent), were outrebounded 13-9, and were outscored 34-19. The period ended with the Celts in front, 90-79.

Gail Goodrich, who wound up as the team's leading scorer with 24 points, did not score a field goal in the whole second half until there were only 14 seconds left in the game!

The littlest Laker missed on 11 straight shots including his last two in the first half. Worse, his defense also suffered a short circuit and he was eaten alive by quick passes to a wide open Jo Jo White.

Dave Cowens, last year's MVP in the NBA, ripped the Lakers for 35 points and hauled down 21 rebounds. John Havlicek added 29 points and both he and Cowends had eight assists apiece.

Now, just when Bill Bridges returned to the lineup after missing 17 games, the Lakers lose West, their best defensive player and number two scorer.

The only thing more depressing is the memory that last year at this time the Lakers were 25-5.

UCLA a nightmare for N.C. State

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The dream game between the nation's two top college basketball powers turned into a nightmare for North Carolina State.

The high-riding Wolfpack waited for more than a year to play UCLA's reigning National Collegiate Athletic Association champions, then became just another victim of the Bruins and big Bill Walton, 84-66.

"Their team just played better than our team," North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan said. "I hope we're better than this."

UCLA handily won its 79th straight game, an amazing streak dating back to 1971. The Bruins also brought an abrupt end to North Carolina State's 29-game win streak, which included an undefeated season last year when the Wolfpack was ineligible for post-season tournament play.

The game was even for about three quarters. For North Carolina State, 6-foot-4 David Thompson was leaping above the basket and rebounding and scoring. Little Monte Towe was dribbling and moving fast. For UCLA, Keith Wilkes was hitting from outside and going inside for rebounds. Dave Meyers was clearing the lane and grabbing loose basketballs.

The duel between the two centers, UCLA's 6-foot-11 Walton and N.C. State's 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson, was short-circulated by early fouls. Walton drew two in the first two minutes of the game and left with four when the game was eight minutes old. Burleson left about three minutes later with three personals.

Burleson started the second half against UCLA center Ralph Drollinger with Walton still on the bench. UCLA Coach Johnny Wooden said, "I knew that I could always bring him back in."

Wooden and Walton sat side-by-side until 9:49 remained in the game. Then the red-haired senior lumbered onto the court. The Bruins led by only two points and Steve Nuce quickly hit a 15-foot jump shot to tie the game for the Wolfpack.

Walton went to work. He laid the ball through the hoop for a two-point UCLA lead. He raced to the other end and grabbed a rebound. Tommy Curtis hit a jump shot, converted a free throw, Wilkes hit two straight baskets, Curtis scored again, then Walton, and the Bruins outscored N. C. State 17-2 over a four-minute period to show once again, this time to a national television audience, why they are No. 1.

North Carolina State finished last season with a No. 2 ranking behind UCLA, but the Wolfpack was not able to meet the Bruins in the NCAA tournament because they were on probation for recruiting violations. The N.C. State players watched from afar as the Bruins won their seventh straight national title.

Players of both teams had been pointing toward Saturday's early-season showdown at the St. Louis Arena since last spring. For the Wolfpack it was a chance to make history by breaking the longest winning streak ever in college basketball. For the Bruins, it was the opportunity to quiet skeptics who had been saying: "Well, you won the NCAA, but North Carolina State couldn't play."

So Saturday the Bruins proved once again to be the best.

"It was a great ball game," said Wooden, college basketball's winningest coach. "It was great for basketball. It would be nice if we could have something like it every year.

Poly's Williams breaks CCAA rebounding mark

POMONA —Lee Roy Williams not only broke Cal Poly's record for rebounds with 33 in Saturday night's 90-78 win over Wheaton (Ill.), he also established a California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) standard.

A check of the CCAA records shows Williams establishing a record, surpassing the previous mark of 32 set by Frank Johnson of Cal State Los Angeles against UC Riverside in 1965.

The 6-foot-9 Williams, who has led Poly in rebounding every game, increased his season average to 15.6 per game.

But Williams will have his hands full this week when Poly visits Long Beach State Wednesday night, hosts North Dakota State Friday night and travels to Nevada, Las Vegas Saturday night.

Jaynes featured in Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Kansas quarterback David Jaynes is expected to light the fireworks against underdog North Carolina State in tonight's nationally-televised Liberty Bond before a near-capacity crowd of 50,000.

Kansas (7-3-1) is a slight favorite on the strength of All American Jaynes' passing arm. North Carolina State, which wound up with an 8-3 record and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, will rely on a strong running game and a tough pass defense. Game time is 8:00 CST.

Jaynes is a ready-made pro passer at 6-2 and 212-pounds and is expected to go in the first round of the draft when he graduates this year. He threw for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Kansas coach Don Fambrough and North Carolina State's Lou Holtz both agree that the outcome will swing heavily on how well Jaynes' throws the football.

State, which will be trying to atone for an 84-66 drubbing of its basketball team at the hands of UCLA Saturday, will use Willie Burden and three other running backs tabbed "the four stallions" for ball control against the big Kansas defense. The others are Charley Young, Stan Fritts and Ronald Hooks.

Burden ran for 1,014 yards and the ACC rushing title this year.

Kansas tied for second in the rugged Big Eight Conference and upset Missouri, 14-13, in the closing game. The Jayhawks played a tougher schedule than N.C. State although the Wolfpack almost came out on top against unbeaten Penn State before

It will be the fifth bowl appearance for N.C. State and the Wolfpack's third Liberty trip. State defeated Georgia, 14-7, here in 1967 and lost to Mississippi State, 16-12, in 1963.

Kansas is 1-2 in bowl competition and it will be the first Liberty visit for the Jayhawks.

Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Dramesi will be honored in the Liberty's tradition of patriotic halftime shows. The New Jersey native spent five years in a North Vietnam POW camp.

Dramesi is the fellow who made a crude American flag from scraps of bedding, underwear and towel thread while in captivity. Thousands of small American flags will be waved by the crowd in a salute to the POWs released this year.

"A year ago," Dramesi said, "I guess I was looking forward to Christmas because we got a half-decent meal on two holidays. We always looked forward to Christmas and the TET holiday. We really looked forward to the meal."

Tennessee wants action

By United Press International

UCLA beat North Carolina State on Saturday, but the really BIG news in college basketball was made at Knoxville, Tenn.

For UCLA, you see, always wins. What happened at Knoxville doesn't happen very often, and it was so unusual that even Dr. Edward J. Boling, the president of the University of Tennessee, got himself involved.

In fact, Boling became the central character in a unique post-game happening when he asked Tennessee Coach Ray Mears to put his players through an intra-squad scrimmage immediately after they had finished winning the Volunteer Classic tournament.

The reason Boling felt the scrimmage was necessary was because of the 11,700 fans in the stands. He thought they deserved some action for their money, and they got none during the title game in which Tennessee defeated Temple 11-6.

11-6--That's correct.

Temple, apparently trying to disprove the theory that the idea of the game is to score, held the ball for 11 ½ minutes in the first half and 14 minutes more in the second half in a slowdown attempt that failed to produce a victory but did result in one of the lowest-scoring basketball games ever played.

Ray Mears, the Volunteers coach, said the Temple stall "stressed once again the need of a 30-second clock in college basketball," and insisted "there was nothing we could do about it," but losing Coach Don Casey couldn't have disagreed more.

"We felt we couldn't let them set the tempo of the game," Casey said. "It was as much their responsibility to counter us as for us to counter them. They didn't even try to stop us from holding the ball."

Casey also said he wasn't too pleased with the officiating setup since three of the four officials at the tournament were from Nashville and he made it clear he didn't like the way they were calling fouls.

Someone suggested to the first-year Temple coach that his team's stall didn't do much to help college basketball in general or the Tennessee tournament in particular, and he tartly pointed out, "It's their classic, not mine."

The Owls went into the stall trailing 7-5 after 7 ½ minutes of the first half. They held the ball almost the rest of the half but couldn't score when Kevin Washington dribbled out of bounds with 15 seconds left in the half, and scored only one point in the second half.

Indiana (No. 3) whipped Ball State 87-62, North Carolina (4) had no trouble with East Tennessee State 81-63, Marquette (6) survived a mini-stall by Minnesota to win 68-50, Providence (8) got 52 points from Marvin Barnes to beat Austin Peay 94-92 (Fly Williams scored 40 for Austin Peay), Memphis State (9) routed East Texas State 99-76 and Louisville (10) beat Florida State 90-78. Maryland (5) and Notre Dame (7) were idle.

Bridge

Distribution's funny bounce

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Sports writers point out that footballs take funny bounces. As bridge writers we might point out that cards take funny ways to distribute themselves. For that reason bridge will never be an exact science."

Jim: "International match-point team competition shows this. Even the greatest players in the world are likely to find themselves flying blind in a fog with no idea as to what they should do."

Oswald: "Here is a hand from a recent team game. The bidding is that at table one. East opened one club because his 19-point hand was too big for a notrump. South preempted with four diamonds. West who was allergic to being shut out tried five clubs. East thought a while and made a brilliant pass and South completed the auction by also passing."

Jim: "It was the right decision based on the principle that a man who preempts should bid just that once."

Oswald: "It also was the right decision from the result standpoint. The ace of diamonds; a diamond ruff and the ace of spades gave the defense the first three tricks and a 100 point profit. The bidding started out the same at the other table but South made the mistake of continuing to five diamonds. West doubled (chiefly from fright) and South had to go down two tricks."

Standard has top bid for Alaska oil

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) The Standard Oil Company of California has presented the highest bid for a parcel of offshore oil property in the Homer Spit area of Alaska.

Standard bid $7,572,190 for the 20-year lease. The state collects royalty on any oil pumped from offshore holdings, it was announced. —

Chuck Herbert, state commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources, said all major oil companies participated in the bidding.

He said the state expected only $5 million in total bids. Preliminary figures showed the total came to more than $24 million.

"There seems to be a pretty interesting structure which runs offshore down there," Herbert said, referring to the lay of the land where the tracts were offered.

Locust not a locust

The 17-year locust is not a locust at all but a cicada. It spends 17 years tunneling underground before it emerges as an adult insect, to starve to death in less than a month because it is unable to feed due to its mouth structure.

Lighting up is no light matter

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

In these days of Ms Lib, it is harder than ever to light a woman's cigarette. It was never easy. Since the days of Sir Walter Raleigh men have been trying, usually unsuccessfully, to fire up the female's stogie, and the job isn't getting any simpler.

I have it on fairly reliable authority that women like to have you perform this little service, not because they can't do it with more ease and alacrity themselves, but because it shows that someone is "paying attention," as one of them puts it.

If they like to have you light their cigarette, why do they make it so hard for you?

At any party you're certain to encounter the female quick-draw artist, the gal who can open her purse, pop a cigarette into her mouth, and fire it up while you're still groping for your lighter.

Not long ago I ran into the fastest cigarette in the West, a long-stemmed beauty who could draw and light before you could say "like a cigarette should." After muffing several tries at stoking up her filter tip, I resolved to catch her next time around. I stood at her elbow, my hand in my pocket enclosing my lighter. I watched her like a house detective.

The moment came. She opened her handbag, my lighter flew out and snapped on—nearly setting fire to the lipstick with which she was then dabbing her lips. Win a few, lose a lot.

Romantically inclined chaps tell me that a significant overture in the art of making out is to gaze deeply into the young person's eyes while you light her cigarette, a look that suggests there is more to life than a flip-top box.

But it's not that easy—or it wasn't when I was a young scamp given to deep gazes. If you look into her eyes, you're liable to light her corsage. If she looks into your eyes, cigarette and lighter never meet.

Females hate, I am snarlingly informed, the man who holds the light down low, making the lightee crouch for the flame. Some parlor gallants will do this, almost as though on purpose, usually when the vis-a-vis is wearing an interesting decolletage. I can't think what they see in the stunt.

The art of lighting a lady's cigarette must be studied and practiced. The man who can whip out a lighter in a flash and have a tiny, golden flame dancing under her nose while she is still fumbling for her weeds, is a joy to women and a pain in the neck to the other men.

Given the opportunity to flourish or flop, I invariably blow the job. The gal beats me to the light. If I get my lighter out, it won't light, and I stand there snapping furiously while some other man leans over and accomplishes the mission.

If the infernal machine lights, I am so astonished I usually burn my hand and singe milady's eyebrows.

One the whole, I have found it more effective to forget the project entirely and adopt the pose of the rugged Marlborough man who has no time for females.

A horse never asks you to light his cigarette.
